Hoover in Plea For Private Aid Funds for Needy

Must Provide Food and Shelter for All,
He Declares

LISTS FOUR POINTS

Addresses Leaders in Social Service and Industry

Washington — (P) — Appealing to the American people to support generously private relief agencies, President Hoover today outlined to welfare and business leaders four salient points in caring for the nation's needy.

They were, first, "to see that no man, woman or child shall go hungry or unsheltered through the approaching winter."

Second, "to see that our great benevolent agencies for character building, for hospitalization, for care of children and all their vast number of offices of voluntary solicitude for the less fortunate are maintained in full strength."

Third, "to maintain the bedrock principle of our liberties by the full mobilization of individual and social resources and responsibilities."

Fourth, "to see that we maintain the spiritual impulses in our people for generous giving and generous service—in the spirit that each is his brother's keeper."

The president spoke at the White House to several hundred noted figures in the American social service and industrial life. They were meeting in a one-day welfare and relief mobilization conference to support behind local community projects for extending aid to the unfortunate. Twenty-nine social service organizations have been enlisted.

"This is, I trust, Mr. Hoover told them, "the last winter of this great calamity. Yet despite a dawning hope upon the horizon, individual need in the meantime may be greater than before."

He asserted, however, that although greater difficulty may be encountered this year in obtaining private subscriptions, he was "confident that you will succeed."

"Our people," he said, "are the most generous of all peoples."

Praising the previous generous responses to local relief societies, the president outlined federal relief projects—the $300,000,000 fund, mammoth building programs, Red Cross distribution of government wheat and cotton and efforts to spread employment.

"With these back logs behind your efforts and those of local authorities," Mr. Hoover asserted, "we must make sure that no American will this winter go hungry or cold."

He said the government is based upon the continuation of your services. They presuppose adequate neighborhood support to your efforts, which still compromise a large part of our reliance. They presuppose, that the thousands of agencies which in normal times carry the load of distress shall function this winter to their utmost capacity. Let no man be left, because we have summoned the power of government to these ends, that it can replace your efforts."

Newton D. Baker, secretary of war under President Wilson, is chairman of the conference. Replying to Mr. Hoover, Baker said that federal and state relief provisions are "helpful" but "not enough."

Need Private Help
"To all these public recognitions," he said, "there must be added a devotion of every private resource both to extend the funds purely for relief and to preserve and intensify the curative ministrations of welfare and character building agencies which are more critically needed now than at any other time."

"The work we have in mind," he added, "is only a mere interim provision to tide over this winter's crisis from the material point of view, but also in its larger aspects it is to continue the work of character building and to conserve and strengthen the fortitude and cour-

20 Arrested by Iowa Police in Farmer Strike

Officials Act After Continued Interference
With Traffic

HIGHWAYS BLOCKED

Pickets Refuse to Let Vehicles Pass, Regardless of Cargo

Sioux City, Iowa — (P) — After a week of comparative quiet, farm strike hostilities flared up again here today when pickets on Highway 20, east of the city limits, caused such serious interference with traffic that police arrested more than 20 of the strikers.

Deputy sheriffs were called to the picket line about 5 o'clock this morning and were said to have succeeded in escorting five truckloads of livestock through the lines. They then returned to the lines when they were informed that more blockade runners were expected.

As the trucks arrived on the scene, the pickets spiked the highway with logs, spiked threshing machine belts and other obstructions and refused to permit any traffic to pass, regardless of the nature of the cargo, officers said.

The deputies called on the city police department for aid and Thomas H. McBride, commissioner of public safety, sent a squad of uniformed officers to the scene.

The policemen were deputized by the sheriff and they proceeded at once to chase the pickets from the highways while the deputy sheriffs cleared the roads of obstructions.

The trucks then began to flow through the lines. It was said by the officers that the trucks not only carried livestock and farm products, but also merchandise and other commodities.

When the trucks had passed through the lines, the officers gathered up a truckload of pickets and took them to the city police station.

Highways entering the city from Nebraska were open, but roads leading to the city from South Dakota and all points in Iowa were being picketed.

Assail Policy of Reich Chancellor

Social Democrats Against Armaments Race With Other Nations

Berlin — (P) — The social Democratic members of the Reichstag passed a resolution today condemning what they called the "militarist policy" of the government of Chancellor Franz von Papen. They declared it raises again the peril of a race for armament among nations.

The reference was to the recent demand of Germany for arms equality.

Such a race would be a catastrophe for Germany, the resolution said, and calculated to perpetuate the treaty of Versailles.

The Reichstag committee on constitutional rights, decided to constitute itself a commission of inquiry into the legality of the decree promulgated last Monday by the chancellor dissolving the Reichstag. The action was taken with the support of the National Socialists and the Communists.

The commission planned to summon the chancellor and other members of the government as witnesses and Herman Goering, National Socialist president of the Reichstag, said he did not believe the chancellor would disregard the summons.

In behalf of the government, however, it was said the cabinet did not recognize any right of the committee to turn itself into an investigating commission. As long as Speaker Goering maintains his present attitude, it was said, the ministers will refuse to appear.

Revolt Leader Nabbed By Chilean Federals

Santiago, Chile — (P) — Col. Arturo Merino Benitez, leader of the revolt which forced Carlos Davila to resign the presidency Tuesday, was captured by federal troops today at Ovalle.

A regiment of carabinieri were reported to have captured 52 air service officers, 50 mechanics and 50 planes, in addition to Colonel Benitez, who is chief of the air service. The prisoners were to be brought to Santiago.

The air service chief fled from the capital yesterday when General Bartolome Blanche, army commander-in-chief, temporarily resigned as acting president. General Blanche resumed office a few hours later and announced that he would hold it with the aid of the army.

Gandhi Determined to Start "Fast to Death"

Poona, India — (P) — Mahatma Gandhi is still determined to begin his "fast unto death," he told official visitors who saw him in Yeroda jail here today.

When they asked him whether he had changed his mind over his determination to refuse food until Great Britain's adjustment of the Indian communal problem is to his liking, he said smilingly:

"Why should I change my mind?"

McGovern in Reply To Charges Made by Service Commission

Milwaukee — (P) — William B. McGovern, president of Wisconsin Telephone company, today issued an answer to the Wisconsin Public Service commission which yesterday denied telephone rate increases in Madison and contended the company sought increases on the basis of misleading figures.

McGovern said the commission's order was "well timed for the primary election." Then he held that the temper and conclusions of the commission must be due to the "inexperience of its various staffs."

50,000 Persons See Chicago Police in Battle With Gang

Hoodlums Escape After Running Fight Through Streets of Loop

Chicago — (P) — Fifty thousand persons, homeward bound, were thrown into a panic as three police cars with screaming sirens roared through loop streets exchanging machine gun fire with six youthful hoodlums who abandoned their car and escaped after it was rammed by a truck.

Of the thousands imperilled by the gun fire, which occurred in the midst of last evening's rush hour, four bystanders were hit by bullets. One of the injured, shot in the left lung, was in a critical condition today.

The clash was precipitated by the hoodlums' mistaken notion that a squad of policemen, whose car drew up behind theirs on Michigan-blvd as they stopped for a traffic signal, was after them. The gunmen, not waiting for a go-signal, immediately shot forward. The police car, assigned to the accident prevention bureau, followed and the chase was on.

Down Michigan-blvd, west on Jackson and then in and about the loop went the hoodlums' car, the police squad, aided by two others, which joined in the chase, in close pursuit.

Above the roar of elevated trains and the streets cars was heard the screaming of sirens, the barking of machine guns, and the cries of terrorized thousands as the speeding automobiles, zigzagging through traffic, careening around corners, and speeding through "red lights" raced on at 50 miles an hour.

Leaving the loop on the south side the hoodlums cut through alleys in the apparent hope of eluding the police.

Out on to a street again they sped. A coal truck, bearing down on them, hit a rear wheel of their car as it zigzagged.

The gunmen continued for a few blocks until a rear wheel, weakened by the impact, came off. The police car, intercepted by the truck which stood across the street after the collision, lost enough time to permit the gunmen to abandon the car and flee.

Blood stains in the abandoned car caused police to believe one or more of the hoodlums had been shot. Edward Sliwa, 20, was the bystander who was shot and seriously injured. The other three injured bystanders were not critically hurt, the bullets hitting them in the arms, feet or shoulders.

Beaver Dam Band Wins 2nd Place at Portland

Portland, Ore. — (P) — A brilliant performance by the band of the Board of Trade Post, American Legion of Chicago, won that organization the national championship in the annual legion competition here today.

The band of Beaver Dam, Wis., was awarded second place. The department of North Dakota was third, and this latter organization, led by Miss Audrey Houghum, was again designated as the national promenade band of the 40 and 2, the second successive year it has won this honor.

55 Foreign Legionnaires Killed in Train Wreck

Paris — (P) — Advances to the war ministry today placed the number of dead in the wreck of a train carrying 508 members of the French Foreign legion in Algeria yesterday at 55. A total of 222 were injured, these advances said.

Oran, Algeria — (P) — One hundred twenty fighting men of France's famous Foreign legion were believed dead today as the result of an accident which sent a troop train hurtling into a ravine yesterday. Forty bodies had been taken from the twisted mass of wood and steel this morning.

About 100 were reported injured when the train, carrying 508 officers and men of the legion, plunged 250 feet into a ravine near Tlemcen, 70 miles southwest of here, in the foothills of the Atlas mountains.

The troops were enroute from Sidi del Abbes, Algeria, to Djidja, Morocco, the territory made famous by Abd el Krim a few years ago when he stubbornly resisted French and Spanish forces in this area.

General Paul Rollet, inspector of the Foreign legion, who is directing the rescue work at the scene of the wreck, was almost in tears today over the loss of so many of his fighting legionnaires.

Manchukuo Is Recognized by Tokio Regime

Treaty Signed Officially
Today in Ceremony
At Changchun

CHINA IN PROTEST

U. S. Not Expected to Take Immediate Steps on Situation

Changchun — (P) — The state of Manchukuo, youngest of the world's commonwealths, and born of the successful military campaign of the Japanese army in Manchuria last fall, was recognized officially by Japan today.

At a drab and listless ceremony in the old salt administration building here, in the presence of Manchukuo officials and their corps of Japanese advisers, Cheng Hsiao-Hsu, premier of Manchukuo, and General Nobuyoshi Muto, special envoy of the Japanese Mikado, affixed their names, using a tiny brush instead of a pen.

The treaty calls for a defensive alliance between the two states and marks the first recognition of the new nation by a foreign power. The league of nations publishes its declaration on the Japanese military campaign in Manchuria, following the report of the league's inquiry commission, which is now on file in Geneva.

The signing occupied less than 10 minutes. General Muto signed first, then Premier Cheng. Henry Pu-Yi, who wore an inscrutable Mona Lisa smile, looked on.

NANKING SENDS NOTES

Nanking — (P) — The Chinese government opened a counter-attack on the signing of the treaty between Manchukuo and Japan today in the form of notes of protest to London, Paris, Washington, Rome and Geneva, charging Japan with violating China's territorial and administrative sovereignty by recognizing the new state.

The notes demanded immediate international action.

A cablegram also was addressed to the league of nations calling its attention to the Chinese claim that Japan's action is incompatible with the spirit of the league covenant and a direct violation of the resolutions of the league assembly. It urged the league to take immediate steps.

Identical notes to the signers of the nine-power treaty, including the United States, charged the Japanese action violated that treaty and asked for a conference to take up "this urgent issue."

In a note to Japan, the Chinese government declared recognition of Manchukuo was "an open violation of China's territorial and administrative integrity."

WASHINGTON WAITS

Washington — (P) — It was said at the state department today that no immediate steps will be taken by the United States in connection with Japan's recognition of an alliance with Manchukuo.

At the same time Secretary Stimson at his conference with newspapermen, refused to make any comment on the situation.

Conference Fails to Censure President

Springfield, Ill. — (P) — The Illinois Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today defeated an attempt to censure President Hoover for his views on state control of prohibition. The conference instructed a committee to report a resolution re-affirming its belief in the 18th amendment.

The conference listed to a personal resolution introduced by the Rev. C. P. McClelland, president of Murray college, after the committee on the church and world order, of which he is chairman refused to report it favorably. It would have named the president for his speech accepting renomination last month.

2 Men Arrested After Automobile Collision

Salina, Kas. — (P) — Lloyd Griggs and Roy Smith, Great Bend, Kas., were held in jail today for investigation following an automobile crash eight miles south of Salina last night when their car collided with one occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Layman of Pole, Neb. Both of the Laymans received minor injuries and Mrs. Layman was taken to a hospital here. Officers said the Great Bend men drove on after the accident but that they ran into the ditch before reaching Salina.

Inquiry Started On Insult Firms

No Charges Filed but State's Attorney
Launches Action

Chicago — (P) — A deficit of $526,091 exclusive of the capital stock of the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company, an Insult utility holding company, was reported to federal court today by the receiver, Eugene V. R. Thayer.

The deficit, including the company's stock, was placed at $28,392,695.

This second audit of an Insult utility securities company to reach the courts this week was made public as State's Attorney John A. Swanson announced the appointment of four assistant prosecutors to investigate the collapse of the Insult investment fabric.

Two days ago auditors reported a loss of 226 million dollars for the Insult Utility Investments, Inc., and tomorrow the receivers of Middle West Utilities company, gigantic holding company, plan to bring their preliminary report into federal court.

Swanson said he was starting a series of conferences with members of his staff. He said he planned to ask receivers of the Insult concerns to furnish reports of their operations previous to last June, when Insult abdicated as head of the vast utilities empire.

"There is much public clamor and many insinuations regarding failure of the Insult companies," Swanson said. "We intend to make a thorough investigation, with the view of either absolving officers of the concerns or instituting prosecution."

Swanson said no complaints or charges had been filed with his office and he was starting the investigation "solely for the public good and with a belief that the entire matter should be cleared up."

No Clues Reported in Robins' Disappearance

Kennebunk Beach, Me. — (P) — Mrs. Margaret Dreier Robins, wife of Col. Raymond Robins, prominent prohibitionist, who disappeared 12 days ago, said today she was "utterly in the dark" after a conference with Dr. Daniel A. Poling, prohibition leader.

Dr. Poling who met Mrs. Robins at the summer home of Salmon O. Levinson, Chicago attorney, here this morning, added that "a comparison of our notes and ideas has developed nothing new."

Hutchinsons to Leave Greenland for England

Copenhagen, Denmark — (P) — George R. Hutchinson, and his "flying family" will leave Angmagssalik, Greenland, today for England on the trawler Lord Talbot, the Danish administrator there informed the government.

The Hutchinsons, attempting a flight from New York to London over the Arctic route, wrecked their plane near Angmagssalik and were rescued by the Lord Talbot on Tuesday.

Milwaukee Teachers To Resist Pay Slash

Milwaukee — (P) — Any member of the Milwaukee Teachers' association was authorized today by unanimous vote of some 800 members of the association to take such legal action as will be necessary to block a mandatory 10 per cent salary cut ordered by the school board.

Resolutions prepared by the association's board of managers, sanctioning court action by one or a group of members and pledging financial and other assistance in the suit, were adopted at a monthly meeting attended by virtually the entire membership of the organization yesterday.

The teachers contend they are willing to contribute 10 per cent of their salaries for unemployment relief, but are opposed to the mandatory plan because it would take about $700,000 out of the school budget and it would be difficult to reinstate this sum in the budget next year.

Cash Bonus Now Against Public Welfare—Hoover

Would "Impose Infinite
Distress Upon Whole Country," He Declares

Washington — (P) — In President Hoover's opinion, immediate cash payment of the bonus would "be a deadly blow at the welfare of the nation."

"I have consistently opposed it," Mr. Hoover said yesterday. "In the public interest I must continue to oppose it."

He gave his position in a 700-word statement to the press which he said was "due to the country and to the veterans." It was directed at the American legion convention in Portland, Ore., and was issued after the convention legislative committee had recommended adoption of a resolution favoring full and immediate payment of adjusted service certificates.

"The welfare of the nation as a whole must take precedence over the demands of any particular group," the president said.

"I have the duty not alone to see that justice and a sympathetic attitude is taken by this nation toward the 4,000,000 veterans and their families, but also to exert myself for justice to the other 21,000,000 families to whom consumption of this proposal at this time would be a calamity."

Child Seriously Wounded by Boy

Shooting at East Troy Believed Result of Children's Quarrel

Milwaukee — (P) — Seven-year-old Clarence Omet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Omet of East Troy, Wis., was reported in a serious condition at St. Mary hospital here today as the result of a bullet wound in his chest.

Meanwhile, Harold Behling, 13, who fired the shot, was held in the Walworth-co jail at Elkhorn. No warrant has been issued and disposition of the case by County Judge Roscoe Luce will be determined by the outcome of Clarence's injury.

Although originally insisting the shooting was accidental, the Behling boy admitted to Judge Luce yesterday he fired deliberately.

Mrs. Omet, who has been at her son's bedside since he was brought to the hospital Monday afternoon, said the shooting occurred while Clarence and his sisters, Margaret and Margery, 3, twins, were playing in the yard. The Behling boy was on the adjoining property of Ryan Schradler of East Troy, with whom he lives.

Apparently, Mrs. Omet said, the children had an argument and the Behling boy obtained the rifle. Mrs. Omet was attracted by the screams of the twins and ran outside. When she learned Clarence was wounded she brought him here and failed to inquire into the cause of the shooting.

The wounded boy has been unconscious most of the time he has been in the hospital. Doctors said the bullet penetrated his liver, left lung and intestines. They discouraged any attempt to obtain from him a statement regarding the shooting.

ABANDON CHANNEL SWIM
Cape Gris Nez — (P) — A German girl, Loie Koch, and a Dutch miss, F. Brouwer, both abandoned attempts to swim the English channel today after they had covered about ten miles.

Favors Immediate Action by Congress to Pay Veterans

SESSION NEARS END

War Department Rapped for Distributing Hurley Talk

Portland, Ore. — (P) — Outright repeal of the prohibition laws was recommended in a resolution adopted by the American legion convention here today. The vote was 1,144 to 133.

Portland, Ore. — (P) — A resolution favoring immediate cash payment of the soldier bonus was adopted on the vote today at the closing session of the fourteenth annual convention of the American legion. The vote on the bonus was 1,167 for to 109 against.

The action was taken in face of a statement by President Hoover last night that such payment "constitutes a fatal threat at the entire program of recovery."

Announcement of the overwhelming vote was greeted with a great shout of approval.

Johnson Favored
Louis A. Johnson, Clerksburg, W. Va., attorney, was declared by his supporters to be assured of the post of national commander as the American legion met for the final session of its 14th annual convention here today. Henry L. Stevens, Jr., North Carolina, will retire as commander after a year's service.

George Malone, Nevada, and Frank N. Belgrano, California, were still in the running, however, for commander.

Portland, Ore. — (P) — The war department was censured in a viva voce vote today at the national convention of the American legion. An outbreak of shouting after the vote interrupted proceedings for a time.

The vote was taken after Harry M. Arthur, secretary of the legion of South Carolina, lodged a complaint because envelopes containing a speech by Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley on the bonus marchers had been placed in the chairs of all delegates. These envelopes bore the frank of the war department.

After Arthur shouted his complaint, the convention by acclamation declared its opposition to such action by the war department "or any other governmental department."

The envelopes contained sheets headed "Statement by the Hon. Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, on 'Bonus Marchers in Washington.'"

It said in introduction: "In the interests of truth and accuracy, I want to place before you the following pertinent facts about the riot that took place in the city of Washington on July 28."

It repeated in essential details the statements that have come from the administration recently on the bonus march and the eviction of the veterans by use of troops.

A part of the letter was devoted to the arrest of Secretary Hurley issued calling the army into action on the afternoon of July 28.

The statement concluded with the paragraph: "All fatalities incident to the riot took place before the arrival of federal troops. After the arrival of the U. S. troops, a force of about 500 men, not one shot was fired and no person was seriously injured. Law and order were promptly restored."

The ayes and noes both were loud, but Commander Stevens declared the vote of censure had carried.

A motion by Walter Edwards, Muskogee, Okla., condemning the National Broadcasting company for taking Floyd Gibbons, newspaperman and radio announcer, off the air on legion broadcasts was tabled after another disturbance. A few boos came from the gallery.

Speeches on the immediate payment of the bonus were limited by a vote of the convention to five minutes.

Representative Wright Patman of Texas, author of soldier legislation and a delegate to the convention, was the first speaker.

Miners Turn Back After Examining Activity at Shaft

Alton, Ill. — (P) — A caravan of 500 miners drove to the Livingston mine at Livingston today with the intention of picketing the shaft, but left when they found that only enough coal was being hoisted to supply the pumps at the mine.

Authorities said the coming of the miners may have given rise to the unfounded rumors that a second invasion of the Franklin-co territory was under way.

The mine is operated jointly by 60 miners and business men of Livingston and is leased from the Staunton Coal company. The picketers said they heard reports the mine was producing coal commercially, but left after a conference with the operators. The small number of miners in the shaft were working under the new 45 wage scale, however.

U. S. Treasury Today Handles Over 2 Billion

Carries Out Autumn Financing, Debt Payments And Tax Collections

Washington.—(P)—More than $2,000,000,000 flowed through the treasury today as the government carried out its autumn financing, debt payments and tax collections. These huge operations were accomplished as the midnight deadline neared for formal notification from foreign debtors desiring postponement of December payments. Only three of the smaller nations—Estonia, Latvia, and Poland—had taken advantage of the 90-day clause in the war debt agreements. They postponed an aggregate payment of $1,252,000.

This same clause extends to all principal payments due from foreign nations three months from now. But it has not been exercised by the other debtors. Great Britain owes the largest sum of $30,000,000, and all other countries $3,084,485.

Only payments on principal were postponable today. The same debtors or nations owe $324,936 in interest due Dec. 15. Postponements obtained through formal notification extend for two years. Interest charges are 3 1/2 per cent on the deferred payment.

The treasury's financial operations today included borrowing $1,255,000,000 in 5-year notes and one-year certificates of indebtedness; paying $50,000,000 interest on the public debt; retiring $712,500,000 in maturing certificates and receiving from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 in third-quarter income tax payments.

Public Debt Grows
The financing transaction will add approximately $40,000,000 to the $20,067,179,521 public debt. Cash thus obtained will be available for needs of the Reconstruction corporation and other federal agencies.

This includes the $100,000,000 outlay on public buildings authorized in the relief act. Additional projects totaling $20,810,000 were designated by the treasury yesterday for participation in this fund. Making an aggregate of $7,808,000 of public building construction specified within the past week for speeding up under the relief law.

New cash demands by the Reconstruction corporation also were foreseen as this agency pushed its farm-aid program yesterday by naming officials for seven of the ten regional agricultural credit corporations to be organized.

This quarter's income tax receipts are not expected by treasury officials to make any great impression on the federal deficit. It amounts to over $448,000,000 for the two and one-half months of the 1933 fiscal year.

In this period, the government has collected $248,000,000 and spent $597,000,000. So far the billion-dollar tax has increased miscellaneous revenue collections by $23,000,000 over last year's figures.

Farm Field Day To Draw Crowd

Farmers From Outagamie-co to Attend Event At Madison

Gustav E. Sell, Outagamie-co agent, several members of the county agricultural committee and many farmers from the county, will go to Madison Saturday to attend the farmers' field day at the university farm. A special program is being arranged for women. One of the features of the program will be the showing of results of various crop experiments carried out this summer.

The program for the meeting follows:
9 o'clock—Report of investigations in tobacco curing, by James Johnson, on farm lawn.
9 to 2 o'clock—Farm question clinic—by members of experiment station staff, in big tent on farm lawn.

10 o'clock—Inspection of contagious abortion experiments, Dr. B. A. Beach and G. C. Humphrey.
Inspection of dry season pasture experiments, G. B. Mortimer.
11:45—Basket picnic lunch on farm lawn.

12:30—"Grow Our Own"—by President Frank, introduced by Dean Christ Christensen, on farm lawn.

1:30—Home grown poultry ration and suggestions for 1933 by James G. Halpin and associates.
Inspection of cornbreeding work and the production of high yielding hybrids.

Corn grower's problems—departments of agronomy, genetics, and plant pathology.
4 o'clock—Inspection of fertilizer trials with hybrid corn and seed production—fields where hybrid corn is being produced.

Friendly Indians to Start Gym Classes

Friendly Indian Gym classes will be started at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, according to W. S. Ryan, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. The classes will be held regularly on Saturdays. Swim periods will continue daily until the end of the month. After the membership campaign swim periods will be held weekly on Tuesday nights.

Legion Post Files Corporation Papers

Articles of incorporation for the William Verhagen Post No. 60 of the American Legion at Kimberly were filed today with A. G. Koch, registrar of deeds. The corporation is to be a non-profit firm. The articles were signed by John Schumacher, post commander, and A. G. Briggs, vice commander.

Majors Appointed for Salvation Army Drive

Dr. L. D. Utts and Ray Eichelberger have been named majors for the annual Salvation Army maintenance drive, which will open here Sept. 22 and continue through Sept. 26. Captains are being elected today, and the list of workers will be made up within the next few days.

J. E. Murphy is general chairman of the campaign.

Kohler Promises Sound Program to Cut Down Costs

"Jobs for Workers, Lower Taxes for All," Part Of His Plan

(By The Associated Press)
Walter J. Kohler, former governor who again is seeking the Republican nomination for that office, assured an audience in Wauwatosa last night that he has a sound program for cutting the cost of state government to fit the purse of the taxpayer.

"The present administration shudders at the thought of cutting costs and claims it can't be done—that it would cripple and destroy the usefulness of the boards and commissions," Kohler said.

"The fact is that what the boards and commissions need is not more money but less politics. I insist that they center their thoughts upon the job they have to do rather than the money they hope to spend, and we shall see more new life in state departments, some of which today appear to be mainly publicity organizations."

"We want more work and less talk about work at election time; more officials at their desks and less at political schools; more chasing of crooks and less pursuing of votes."

Kohler repeated his demand that the present state administration comply with a budget law enacted during his administration which calls for a financial report from the governor at the end of each fiscal year.

Kohler said the increase of the state's total net disbursements from $50,000,000 in 1930 to more than $80,000,000 in 1932 and the draining of the treasury to the tune of $7,650,000 during the last fiscal year is proof of what happens under the Progressive principal of "spend what we please and raise the money later."

Would Cut Costs
"This issue is clear cut," Kohler said. "I propose to reduce the cost of government. My opponents talk of spending more and try to fool the people into believing that somebody else pays. My plan calls for market for the farmers, jobs for the workers and lower taxes for all. Their plan means opportunity for no one except the professional politicians and a crushing tax burden for all."

John B. Chapple, candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States senator, speaking at Columbus, referred to the campaign support given to the Progressives in Wisconsin by Senators Wheeler and Shipstead as "fresh evidence of political racketeering."

"Cannot Blaine and LaFollette justify their own activities without the importation of these outsiders?" Chapple asked. "What do Wheeler and Shipstead owe to Wisconsin's needs? Are Blaine and LaFollette more interested in bringing facts to the people, or in protecting their own political jobs?"

"The importation of these outsiders answers the question emphatically. With so many thousands already in the LaFollette racket payroll, why must the racket import these outsiders, and who is fooling the bill?"

Progressives Speak
Gov. Philip F. LaFollette and Senator John J. Blaine continued their campaigns for re-election in Milwaukee-co last night. They talked in Cudahy and South Milwaukee to audiences consisting of industrial workers.

As on previous occasions when they have appeared together during the current campaign, LaFollette chose state issues for his subject and Blaine briefly discussed national measures of interest to Wisconsin citizens.

LaFollette expressed sympathy with the financial plight of the small business man. He talked at length on the subject of taxes on incomes and corporation dividends and cited figures to show how, under Progressive taxation policy, the wealthy man is compelled to carry his "just" share of the burden of government and relief.

"When we get out to tax dividends the stalwarts said we were imposing double taxation on them," he said. "But what about the small business man—the grocer, for instance? He pays a tax on his property; he pays a personal property tax, and then he pays an income tax, if he has any income."

Warning his audience not to be misled by the "propaganda" distributed by the stalwart Republicans, the governor said "money is being spent from one end of the state to the other as it has never been spent before" in an attempt to elect the stalwart gubernatorial candidate.

LaFollette cited the taxes paid by ten Milwaukee residents before dividends were taxed and contrasted these figures with the taxes paid by these men after the dividend taxation law went into effect.

Among the examples listed by the governor was Luck Niemann, whom he described as the principal owner of the Milwaukee Journal. The governor said Niemann paid no tax on an income of $569,940 in 1930, but that this last year Niemann was asked to pay a tax of $42,365.51 on an income of $492,604.

MARRIAGE LICENSES
Applications for two marriage licenses were made today at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk, by the following couples: Albert C. Sanderfoot, route 1, Kaukauna, and Edith Sanders, Little Chute; Martin Van Gompel, route 1, Little Chute, and Ardene Verbeten, Wrightstown.

WINNERS IN MAINE ELECTION

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

THE G. O. P. IN TROUBLE

The voting in Maine indicates that the anti-Republican sentiment which has been mounting steadily since 1930, is now stronger than ever. As that admirable student of elections, Mr. Simon Michelet, points out, the result in Maine confirms all the evidence from primaries and registrations in other states in showing marked losses by the Republicans and distinct gains by the Democrats. No abstruse calculations are necessary. When the lift of votes is as large as it was throughout Maine there is little reason to doubt that the movement is national in its character. There can now be no question whatever that the Democrats have a strong lead and that they will win in November unless there is an unprecedented and sensational reversal of opinion.

The President has recognized the desperate position of his party by calling upon it to make stronger efforts to have the people understand the issues at stake. His party will have to do more than that if it will have to alter feelings which are deeper than reasoning, feelings which are impervious to mere argument. It will have to deal with a profound popular conviction that the time has come to terminate the eleven years' period of Republican rule in Hoover in a position to day like that of Mr. Wilson and his followers in 1920. The people were determined then to make a change, to have done with the man who presided over the miseries of the war; today they are quite evidently determined to have done with the man who presided over the inflation and the crash.

The Republicans should not complain. They capitalized the discontent of 1920 and won. Today the tables are turned and the Democrats have capitalized the discontent of 1932.

Against such tides of sentiment ordinary campaign argument is of little account. But as a matter of fact the Republicans have not as yet developed very good campaign arguments. Their strategic plan up to this point, as developed by the President and by Mr. Coolidge, is to disclaim all responsibility for the depression and to project the responsibility upon foreign nations; having rid themselves of any necessity of justifying or revising the major policies of the last decade, they then emphasize the intricate and elaborate emergency measures of the last twelve months and base their claim to re-election upon the implication that only the Hoover Administration knows how to operate this improvised machinery. To make good their claim they dwell upon the irresponsible behavior of the Democratic House of Representatives.

The most obvious defect in this plan of campaign is that the people do not believe that the party which has ruled the country for eleven years had no part in producing the present distress. The people remember that this same party claimed the credit for prosperity and it outrages their sense of justice to find the Republicans dodging all responsibility for the depression. This is, if you like, mere recital. But if the people think rather crudely about the cause of prosperity and depression, who but the Republicans have taught them to think thus crudely? In any event, whatever the quality of the reasoning, the fact is that as a campaign argument the Republicans disclaimer of responsibility is hopelessly unconvincing.

The argument that the Hoover Administration alone knows how to operate the emergency machinery will not stand much analysis. For what is this emergency machinery? There is the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which is presided over by a Democrat, Mr. Pomeroy. There are the committees from the Federal Reserve District set up recently to stimulate business. The leading figure is Mr. Owen D. Young, a Democrat. There is the organization to mobilize relief. It is presided over by a Democrat, Mr. Newton D. Baker. There is, perhaps the most important of all, the Federal Reserve System, with its very promising open-market policy. This is a nonpartisan organization which is not in theory, or it may be assumed, in practice, a part of the Administration. Finally, there is the effort to reduce armaments and to obtain a better international equilibrium, and the principal American negotiator in this whole effort at collaboration has been a Democrat, Mr. Norman H. Davis.

Thus it appears that the machinery of relief and reconstruction is already rather thoroughly pervaded by Democrats. Mr. Hoover is entitled to great credit for having dealt with it in so non-partisan a fashion. But it is impossible for any Republican to pretend that only Republicans can operate the machinery.

There remains the most impressive of all the Republican arguments and the one which will undoubtedly be used most effectively during the remainder of the campaign. It is the argument that the Democrats are not to be trusted with power because the Democratic House under Mr. Garner's leadership was irresponsible and confused. This is a powerful argument. For the Democratic record is a bad one. The hardest task Governor Roosevelt has to perform is to persuade the country that under his leadership the Democratic Party would behave differently than it did last winter.

This much, I think, dispassionate persons will admit: under our system of government a party which controls only one House of Congress and has no Presidential leadership is almost invariably irresponsible. Mr. Hoover himself will have no difficulty in remembering how the Republican Congress behaved in the last two years of Wilson's term. It was so destructive that it nearly brought the business of government to a standstill.

The truth is that only through Presidential leadership can the American Government work in an orderly fashion. Therefore, the real point at issue here is whether Governor Roosevelt possesses the qualities which will be needed to discipline and lead his party. As to that, we may know more as the campaign proceeds.

Bloomer Offers Lowest Bid for Grading Project

Submits Figure of $43,785 For Improvement Job On Highway 10

John F. Bloomer, Appleton contractor, was the low bidder on a grading job on Highway 10, between Appleton and Forest Junction, at a letting at the state highway department at Madison yesterday. The department took bids on highway and bridge projects totalling more than $1,000,000. Bids were submitted on three concrete surfacing jobs, five grade projects.

The Appleton contractor's bid of $43,785.70 was on the grading of Highway 10, between Appleton and Forest Junction, from the point where the highway leaves Route 55 and follows a gravel road through Forest Junction. This road, according to state highway department plans, will be paved next year. Contracts on all of the road and bridge projects to be held up pending determination of the official low bids and checking of bids by the state commission.

Other unofficial low bids and the bidders follow:
Westby-Le Crosse road, Highway 11, six miles of concrete in Vernon-co; Paul C. Kroeck Co., Milwaukee, $152,079.41.

Birch-Ironwood road, U. S. Highway 2, west section of nine miles of concrete in Iron-co; Kroeck Co., $153,961.45; east section; Victor Nelson, Superior, $15,079.11.

Blair-Etrick road, Trempealeau-co U. S. Highway 53, eight miles of grading; Clement F. Scully, St. Paul, $77,885.90.

Tomahawk-Cassian road, Oneida-co U. S. Highway 51, grading; Carl and Joe Theiler, Medford, $32,051.7.

Heartford Junction—Hazelhurst road, U. S. Highway 51, grading; Theiler Lumber Co., Medford, $30,991.32.

Pepin-Nelson road, Highway 35, relocation of highway along Chippewa river, August Schroeder, Milwaukee, $112,341.85.

In connection with this relocation, contracts on the five bridge jobs will be let. Unofficial low bids on bridges were:
Minneapolis Bridge Co., $19,423.35; Weldon-Allen Co., Milwaukee, $124,455.98; Industrial construction Co., Minneapolis, $34,715.99; American Bridge Co., Chicago, $90,038; Carl Stargard, Athens, $4,697.24.

Candidates to Speak At Club Mass Meeting

A mass meeting at which candidates for county, state and congressional offices will be held at 7:30 Friday evening at Wilson Junior high school under auspices of the Fifth Ward Voters club. Special efforts are being made by officials of the club to fill the large auditorium. Club officials also hope to bring women voters to the meeting. Invitations have been sent to all candidates to appear on the rostrum and discuss various campaign issues.

Want Commissioners to Decide on Road School

Highway commissioners of various counties in the state are being asked by the state highway department to assist the department in determining whether a road school will be held in 1933. Each commissioner is receiving a ballot on which he is asked to register his approval or disapproval of a school next January. F. R. Appleton, Outagamie-co commissioner, has received one of the ballots.

Relief Council Spent $1,070 on Poor Last Month

Balance in Treasury at End Of August Totals $4,376

Aid given by the Appleton Welfare and Relief council during August totaled $1,071.43, according to the monthly report of Miss Gladys Stolt, executive secretary of the council. After all August bills were paid the balance in the council's treasury was $4,376.64.

The average cost per family during the month was $6.30. Groceries for the 170 families who were aided totaled $698, meats $97, fuel $5, clothing and shoes $22, and milk $244.

The Appleton Apostolate spent $457 on 90 families, at an average cost of $5.72; the Associated Lutheran charities, $164 on 26 families, average $6.32; Pythian Sisters, $133 on 17 families, average $7.83; American Legion and auxiliary, $149 on 21 families, average $6.83; Ministerial association, $123 on 19 families, average $6.50; German Ladies Aid, $44.27 on six families, average $7.38; and Red Cross, $52.4 on one family. Articles of clothing distributed from the storeroom numbered 188. At rummage sale prices they were valued at $64.95. The city department distributed 117 articles, the Apostolate 48, the American Legion and Auxiliary 3, the German Ladies Aid 7, the Pythian Sisters 2, and the Associated Lutheran charities 11.

Don't Put Things Off, The Rev. L. F. Gast Tells Kiwanians

Three things are needed to make the most of life—dreaming, daring and enduring, the Rev. L. F. Gast, Green Bay, told Kiwanians in an address, What Are You Making of It? at Conway hotel Wednesday noon. The Rev. Mr. Gast is lieutenant-governor of the Northeastern district of Kiwanis and president of the Green Bay club.

"We are standing on the stage of life," he observed, and unlike Hollywood, where everyone is cast to a certain role, we must do our own casting.

"We are too prone to pursue a mirage, too ready to put things off until tomorrow. Tomorrow is a great land, but to many of us it is just a mirage. God sends no one to this earth without a mission. We are not sent here to live for ourselves but to serve others."

He lauded the mission of the service clubs, and played Mencken and Chesterton for "leveling their literary guns" at the dinner clubs.

Need Better Thinking

Speaking of dreaming, he said that thoughts are the parents of all great things and deeds, and that all great men have been dreamers. He spoke of the great art work, "The Sistine Madonna" of the radio, the universe itself, the World war and the depression, saying that all these things at one time were but thoughts in someone's mind.

"What we need is clearer, better, and nobler thinking," he continued, giving statistics on modern crime conditions.

"But we need more than better thinking, we need people who will dare to do. Mussolini dared to summon the youth of Italy, and became the saviour of that country.

"And the thing important word in this life is enduring. It is not always the man who does the brilliant thing that is most valuable. It is the steady, conscientious person, like the doughboys who stuck in the trenches, who is most valuable in this world of ours."

Emil Walther was made a director of Kiwanis club at the meeting. He succeeds John Wilcox, who has left the city.

Don't pursue a mirage, the Rev. L. F. Gast Green Bay, declared here yesterday in an address to the Kiwanis club. He said people are too prone to put things off until tomorrow.

Chief McGillan Highly Praised For Efficiency

Appleton Man Honored at Banquet of State Association

Appleton's fire chief, George P. McGillan, was paid high tribute by three speakers at the annual banquet of the Wisconsin State Fire Chiefs association, which is in convention here, at Conway hotel last night. The speakers were Gustave Keller, Sr., speaking as a citizen; John Roach, speaking as president of the Appleton Fire and Police commission; and Fire Chief Peter J. Steinkellner of Milwaukee.

Keller declared that citizens of Appleton were proud to have a man at the head of its department who is so efficient and able. Roach said that under Chief McGillan's guidance the Appleton department was excellently disciplined and that the commission was exceptionally well-pleased at the manner in which he conducted the fire fighting work in the city.

Chief Steinkellner said that Chief McGillan was one of the most outstanding and efficient fire chiefs in the state. He said the organization of the state association was due to him. He also said that citizens of Appleton should know that Chief McGillan was a man who went to a convention to get everything he could from it.

"His efforts to learn are sincere and tenacious and at every convention he has attended where I've been, I have never known him to miss a meeting," Chief Steinkellner said.

George P. McGillan, chief of the Appleton fire department, was praised by three speakers last night at the annual banquet meeting here of the Wisconsin State Fire Chiefs association. He was called one of the outstanding fire chiefs in the state.

man Philipp Vogt, chairman of the city council fire and water commission. Mayor John W. Goodland, Jr., acted as toastmaster.

A program of entertainment included: a vocal solo by Miss Helen Pleier; a duet by J. Martin Van Rooy and Robert M. Connelly; Hawaiian music by John Newcomb; a vocal solo by Mrs. F. P. Dohearty; a humorous skit, The Eccentric Millionaire, with Connelly and Van Rooy and several girls; and a humorous address by Alderman R. F. McGillan.

Following the banquet the wives of the firemen were taken to a theatre, while the men were entertained at a stag at the Elk's club.

Sioux City Center Of Farm Picketing

Strikers Active Despite Plea of Mayor for End Of Activities

Sioux City, Iowa — (P) — Farm pickets today concentrated most of their efforts in the blockade for higher prices for farm produce on this city which is one of the mid-west's principal livestock markets.

Their activities went on despite the plea of Mayor Hayes, who yesterday declared that "with only one market picketed, the farmers are not accomplishing their aim" and pointed out that they were depriving Sioux City laborers of work and forcing shipments to other agricultural marketing centers.

At Spencer, an earlier center of strike activities, Eric Carlson, chairman of the Clay County Farmers' Holiday association, declared that highways in that vicinity will not be picketed at least until the county fair closes Sept. 24.

City officials, including Mayor Hayes, and representatives of local business men, were said to have asked for state intervention in local picketing activities in a conference with state officials Tuesday. The latter, however, were reported as having expressed confidence in local authorities to handle the situation.

97 Homicide Victims In State Last Year

Madison—(P)—There were 97 victims of homicide in Wisconsin last year, almost double the number a decade ago, the state board of health announced today.

Since 1920 the number of homicides increased until 1928 when the total dropped to 59. The following year there was a further drop of one, but in 1930 the number rose to 89.

There were 41 homicides in 1920. In 1925 the number read 59 and in 1926 and 1927 it was 67 and 72, respectively. State records show that in 1928 and 1929 the majority of homicides were committed in the urban districts. In 1930, however, 51 of the 89 cases occurred in rural Wisconsin and in 1931 the rural homicides comprised 61 of the 97.

Of last year's victims, 72 were males, according to the board.

Peace-Time Enemy

"It takes brains, ingenuity and courage to fight and prevent fires," said Keller, who was the principal speaker. "Fire is the greatest peace-time enemy of mankind and we need but to reflect on an annual fire loss of $500,000,000 and a death toll of about 15,000 lives to recognize this fact."

"It takes brains, ingenuity and courage to prevent fires because they will not be prevented by sitting idly by and dreaming. It takes profound thought and study, alertness to search out hazards, watchfulness over construction to avoid new hazards. It takes moral courage, and many times tact and diplomacy, to overcome some of the selfish and unwise obstacles that are often encountered. Yet these fires hazards must be removed to save life, prevent bodily injury and bring down the fire tax."

Keller pointed out that Wisconsin is fortunate to have its fire chiefs organized for the purpose of studying, developing and improving the service. Cooperation is the watchword of the hour, he said. It is one of the basic principles of a department. The chiefs organization will lead to greater efficiency and this will result in a saving of life and property that will add vastly to the happiness and prosperity of the people.

An Old, old man at 40

Why can't he be like his pals... full of vim and vigor... brimming with enthusiasm... peppy, alert and keen? Instead, he drags along far in their wake... fagged out... ambitious... an old, old man at 40 when he's really in his prime! How he represents their solicitude... the sympathetic consideration they show him! What he'd give to be his old-time self again. He'd show them! But what to do... that's the perplexing problem. If he only knew what ailed him.

Yet the answer is pathetically simple. Without knowing it he has fallen victim to that modern malady which doctors call ASTHENIA.

Without knowing it—that's the disarming thing about ASTHENIA. It drags you down... it slows your mind... it robs you of your joys and pleasures. Yet all the while you hardly realize you are slipping.

Millions are in just that plight today. They toss and turn at night... wake up with a headache... drag through the day feeling dull, depressed and in constant fear that something serious is wrong.

Are you a victim of this health-destroying blight? Don't think because you're "regular" that you're immune. Physicians will tell you that daily elimination not only must be "regular"... it must be complete. Otherwise poisons gradually accu-

Woman Killed By Fast Train At Brillion

Mrs. Louis Pritzel, 47,
Fatally Injured at Crossing

Mrs. Louis Pritzel, 47, Brillion, was instantly killed about 6 o'clock Wednesday evening when she was struck by a westbound Chicago and Northwestern passenger train as she was crossing the tracks in the village. She suffered a broken arm and a fractured skull.

The woman had walked to the home of Jack Mulhoney, on the west side of Brillion, and was returning home with milk. It could not be learned whether she failed to see the train or whether she attempted to cross the tracks ahead of it.

An investigation was conducted by Edward S. Eick, district attorney, and Gerhard P. Jensen, sheriff, and Eick said that it was plainly an accident and no inquest would be ordered.

Survivors include the widow; three daughters, Mary, Veronica and Dorothy of Brillion; three sons, Arthur of Grims, and Elmer and Louis of Brillion; one sister, Miss Margaret Einberger, Grims; and a brother, William, of Grims. Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning from the home and at 9:30 from St. Mary Catholic church.

Mrs. Pritzel was born in Grims and came to Brillion following her marriage in 1910. She was a member of the Christian Mothers society of St. Mary church.

Russell Wins in Georgia Contest

Governor Nominated for Senator—George Renominated Without Race

(By the Associated Press)

Georgia Democrats yesterday nominated two senatorial candidates in the state primaries and the Delaware republicans' convention named Attorney General Reuben Satterthwaite, Jr. to succeed Representative Robert G. Houston.

Gov. Richard B. Russell, Jr., was conceded victory in Georgia by his veteran opponent, Representative Charles R. Crisp, in the contest to fill the vacancy created by the death of Senator William J. Harris. Senator Walter F. George was renominated without opposition for the long term.

Results of Tuesday's primaries in Colorado will bring Alva B. Adams, Democrat, and Karl C. Schuyler, Republican, to battle for the senatorial election in November.

Senator Carl Hayden and Representative Lewis Douglas appeared renominated by the Arizona Democrats, which is tantamount to election.

Washington Republicans re-nominated Senator Wesley L. Jones, but Representative Ralph Horr of the First (Seattle) district, was defeated by John F. Miller, former member.

Michigan re-nominated its Republican and one Democratic incumbents in the house.

Expense Reports are Filed by 3 Candidates

Three more candidates for county office, one Republican and two Democrats, today filed their primary campaign expense reports with John E. Hantschel, county clerk. All candidates must file their reports by Saturday under the state law. A second report covering complete expenditures must be filed by the Saturday following the election. Candidates filing expense reports yesterday are: Seeking the nomination for sheriff, they are: Edward Dräger, Republican, $72.54; Martin Verhagen, Democrat, $97.17; Walter Scherck, Democrat, none.

Street Committee Meets Friday Night

The street and bridge committee will meet at 7:15 Thursday evening at city hall. The group will consider a communication from the Appleton Water Works regarding the installation of water mains on streets to be paved next year, bids on sewer stubs and on trucks for the street department, and the installation of white posts near the curve on South River-st.

Generally fair tonight and Friday; cooler tonight, possibly some frost locally northwest and north central portions.

General Weather

Continued fair weather has prevailed over the entire country during the past 24 hours except for light showers over Lake Superior, northern Michigan and northeastern Minnesota, caused by low pressure which is now centered over Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. It is somewhat warmer this morning over the central and upper Mississippi valley and lake region, but temperatures are falling over the northern Rocky Mountains and western Canada. Continued fair weather is expected in this section during the next 24 hours, with cooler tonight.

age and self-reliance of our people so that there will be no deep injury done to our national life by this tragic emergency."

Baker mentioned, among other things, the need of preserving the "wholesomeness and self-reliance" of the unemployed who became charges for the first time and the need of caring for and guiding young men and women who leave their homes in search of work.

After hearing Mr. Hoover's address, the delegates went to the Mayflower for a luncheon and to hear Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the Reconstruction corporation, outline the corporation's policies in making loans from the $300,000,000 relief fund, and Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, speak on "Cooperation between states and communities in relief work."

Confers With Lamont

After the meeting, the president conferred privately with several men in the Lincoln study of the White House, among them Thomas W. Lamont, New-York capitalist.

Returning to the executive offices, he talked for a while with Felix Earburg, prominent New York banker. Warburg said he had discussed relief and "exchanged views on the general situation."

Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the Reconstruction corporation, explained at the luncheon of the welfare delegates the provision of the law surrounding the $300,000,000 relief fund and asserted that "the ultimate responsibility for furnishing relief to the people in distress, does and should rest with the states, the political subdivisions of the states and the municipalities. The national government did not and does not propose to assume this responsibility."

Since July 21 when the relief fund was first made available, Pomerene said, the corporation has voted $15,230,014 to 12 states and $4,135,858 to municipalities and political subdivisions of four other states.

"The corporation," he said, "feels that its objective will be better obtained, its funds more prudently distributed and yield better results if these loans are made to furnish relief for short periods of time. Most of the loans thus far made extend relief for periods of from one month to three months. If these loans were to be made for a long period of time there would be a greater temptation to depend upon the federal government rather than upon the state or local government or private charities."

Soft Drink Parlor at Menasha Burglarized

A soft drink parlor on Main-st, Menasha, owned by Gust Jacobs, was entered sometime Wednesday night by burglars who took $8 from the cash register and a quantity of merchandise. The burglars left $1.40 in the cash register. The place was entered through a window in the rear, after a first attempt to open a door on the side failed. Menasha police are investigating.

Schneider Gives Talk To Ellison Bay Crowd

Congressman George J. Schneider, candidate for reelection, last night spoke at a meeting of Progressive Republicans at Ellison Bay in Door-co. Tonight the congressman is scheduled to talk at a meeting at Brussels.

It Is Said--

That Bob McGillan and Phil Vogt Fourth and Sixth ward aldermen, shouldn't be wasting their talents on small time politics. As Senator Doolittle and Senator Donohoe, the two aldermen delivered farcical political addresses at the fire chief's stag party last night that would put to shame some of the most silver-tongued orators in the political field today.

With gesticulations and forceful rolling of r's, they expounded the main issues of the Republican and Democratic parties, and met the heckling and booing of the crowd with the equanimity of veteran stump speakers.

Lists Methods of Preventing Fire Loss in Industry

Fred Van Liew Addresses
Wisconsin Fire Chiefs'
Association

Fire prevention in industry and the Wisconsin inflammable liquid code were the subjects of two talks this morning at the annual convention of the Wisconsin State Fire Chiefs' association at the vocational school. About 75 chiefs and visitors have registered.

The address on Fire Prevention in Industry was given by Fred Van Liew of Kimberly Clark Corp., Neenah.

"Fire prevention in industry," the speaker said, "is divided into four main branches. They are: indemnity against fire, fire prevention, fire protection and fire safety."

Speaking in insurance, he said manufacturing companies should work hand in hand with fire insurance inspectors taking notes of all suggestions they might offer.

Fire prevention, it was said, is dependent upon the human element and involves good housekeeping, good maintenance, good inspection of plants and equipment. In the case of good housekeeping, things should all be kept in order, waste rags should be in containers and they emptied regularly, electrical and mechanical equipment should be inspected thoroughly and regularly and watchmen, rather than old, feeble men, should be young men with good judgment.

No Temporary Wiring

Other causes of fire which are regulated by law, the Kimberly-Clark plant buildings from which company's experiences Mr. Van Liew made all his deductions, are smoking, use of safety gasoline cans, no temporary electric wiring, no temporary structures, grass kept well cut, and screens placed on stacks of cranes working in wood yards.

Fire protection as outlined in the Kimberly-Clark mill allows for an adequate alarm system, a trained fire fighting force among employees of the mills, each man receiving an additional wage for the work and interest, perfect electrical and mechanical equipment, an adequate sprinkler system, and individual water lines for each mill. The fire department within the mill is deemed adequate to handle a situation until the municipal department arrives at which time the city chief assumes command and ranks the mill chief and other mill department officers.

Women Leave First

Other measures of fire safety in the K. C. mills are a rule that in mills where women are employed, they leave the building first. The women are organized with several leaders who take her charges from the building through a particular exit.

Men are trained in first aid and resuscitation. The fire exits are daily inspected for instant use and mill managers are responsible for the fire protection of their mills, must regularly file reports and adhere strictly to a fire code.

J. E. Florin, Madison, superintendent of the state fire prevention bureau, was the second speaker at the morning program and discussed the inflammable liquid code. He reviewed the many inflammable liquid fires in the state in recent years giving causes for them and pointing out how they might have been prevented by stricter adherence to the fire code.

DEATHS

MRS. HENRY FROELICH

Funeral services for Mrs. Henry Froelich were held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Schommer Funeral home, with the Rev. W. R. Wetzel of St. John Evangelical church in charge. Burial was in Riverside cemetery. Bearers were James P. Gates, Thomas J. Long, Carl Conrad, George Lewis, Irving Sauerbach, and Julius Endlich.

MRS. AUGUST SCHULZE

The funeral of Mrs. August Schulze, who died Sunday evening was held at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon from the home, 1202 N. Appleton-st, with services at 2 o'clock at St. John Lutheran church, town of Center. The Rev. H. Werner was in charge, and burial was in the church cemetery. Bearers were Herman Wiekert, Charles Schultz, George Besnah, Joseph Ahrens, William Rahmlow and Charles Reinke.

Must Furnish Peace Bond After Threat

Ed Pendergast, Appleton, was ordered to furnish a $500 peace bond by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court yesterday afternoon after he had been found guilty of threatening to shoot his ex-wife, Mrs. Emma Pendergast, Appleton. Mrs. Pendergast recently secured a divorce. Pendergast was arrested at her home last Tuesday night after he had created a disturbance and he was brought to the county jail by Sheriff John Lappen. Pendergast is being held in the jail, as he has not yet furnished the bond.

Progressives Hold One Meet, Plan for 2 More

A crowd of farmers attended a Progressive Republican meeting at Freedom school last night at Freedom. Speakers included Senator A. M. Miller and Assemblyman William Bay, seeking reelection, and Samuel Sigman, candidate for district attorney. Tonight Miller and Sigman and L. E. Nichols, candidate for the assembly from the first district, will speak at a meeting at McKinley school in Appleton. At 8 o'clock Friday night the same three speakers will talk at a meeting at Roosevelt Junior high school.

Declares Hoover Piloting Nation Through Storm

Secretary Hurley Lauds
President's Work During Economic Stress

Huron, S. D.—(P)—Secretary Hurley today said President Hoover is "successfully piloting this nation through one of the greatest economic storms in history" and credited him with saving "millions of dollars" for American agriculture.

In address prepared for delivery before the South Dakota State fair, the secretary of war declared that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential candidate, "has no plan to break the depression or to put men and women back to work."

The war secretary lauded administration steps that he said had kept the United States "firm, solvent and confident of the future." He also told this northwest farming section that the Democratic house-passed bills that would have more than doubled the cost of the federal government if they had not been stopped by the senate and the president.

Secretary Hurley dealt at some length with the Agricultural marketing act, under which the farm board was set up, inland waterways development and the president's efforts to aid banks as they affect the farming sections.

"To aid agriculture," Hurley said, "the president fostered the enactment of the Agricultural marketing act. Despite criticism from the uninformed sources, this act during this crisis proved a blessing to the interests of agriculture."

"When the Liverpool market, which for years controlled the price of wheat, had dropped to a new low level, the price in Chicago was 10 to 25 cents higher per bushel. Time and again, the market for the farmer was sustained and millions of dollars were saved to American agriculture."

"Under the Agricultural marketing act $500,000,000 was appropriated. Then came an additional $45,000,000 for seed and drought relief. Another $200,000,000 has been made available by the Re-construction Finance corporation. Still another $125,000,000 has been provided federal land banks to assist farmers who own mortgaged farms."

"By the time all the reconstruction projects of the president have come to the aid of agriculture, about a billion dollars will have been made available to the farmer."

"It is well to keep those figures in mind when the administration is assailed for coming to the aid of the rich and ignoring the farmers."

Church Observes 1st Anniversary In New Location

Three Special Services
Next Sunday for First
Reformed Congregation

Three special services at the First Reformed church Sunday will commemorate the first anniversary of the first service in the new church. The present church, located at the corner of N. Superior and W. Hancock-sts, was acquired from the German Methodist congregation in September, 1931.

The speakers at the morning service will be the Rev. George Greth of Sauk City who will preach a German sermon entitled Freude am Missionwerk, and the Rev. Ben Stucki of Neilsville who will preach the English sermon. The junior and senior choirs will sing an anthem, and Merlin Pitt will present a solo, "Trust Ye in the Lord."

In the afternoon Mr. Stucki will preach another sermon in English, the Rev. E. F. Franz, pastor of the church, will conduct the consecration service, and the Rev. D. E. Bosserman will bring greetings from the Ministerial association. Merlin Pitt will sing "Teach Me to Pray."

Dr. L. C. Hesser of the Mission house at Plymouth will be the speaker at the evening service. His subject will be The Release of Personality. The Appleton high school woodwind quintet will present two selections, a male quartet will sing "Christ Stilling the Tempest," Norbert Franz will play two French horn solos, "Song of India," and "After Sunset" and Merlin Pitt will sing, "With Thee, Oh God."

First Reformed church was founded on Nov. 7, 1909, with 23 charter members. The first pastor was the Rev. A. C. Plappert, who was followed in 1914 by the Rev. E. K. Hartmann. In 1920 the Rev. E. F. Franz took charge of the congregation, and in 1927 the present pastor became head of the church.

Chiefs Blame Politics for High Fire Loss

Over-insurance of Buildings Also Seen as Contributing Cause

Political control of fire departments with resultant inefficiency and over-insurance of buildings by ambitious salesmen which leads to incendiary fires are two of the reasons for the high annual fire loss in the United States, according to statements from fire chiefs in a discussion at yesterday afternoon's session of the fourth annual convention of the Wisconsin State Fire Chiefs' association.

The meeting yesterday afternoon was held at the Appleton Vocational school, and it was in a discussion following a talk on Salvage Work by J. W. Just of the Western Actuary bureau of Chicago, that the chiefs hurled their charges.

Most vicious was the attack by Chief J. Steinkellner of the Milwaukee fire department, on the abuses that result from control of the fire department by politicians. He pointed out that he has fought this system for many years and that he is attempting to get the national association of fire chiefs to take some steps.

Chief Steinkellner added that politics does not interfere with his work in Milwaukee, but he declared that the departments of many cities are handicapped by the removal from office of the fire chief and many of his men following each change in administration. He urged that the departments be taken out of politics and put on a civil service basis throughout the country. He predicted that if this was done, that fire losses would immediately be reduced 25 per cent.

Builders Evade Demands

The chief pointed out that in many cities, where the department is controlled by politics, the chief will make demands of builders that he knows will increase the safety of a structure, even though it raises the cost slightly. The usual procedure then, is for the builder to go to his ward politician. The ward boss goes to the mayor and the chief gets orders to "lay off."

"Usually the chief thinks more of his job than of his duty," Chief Steinkellner declared, "and he lays off." Then there follows erection of a structure that is not safeguarded against all the hazards of fire.

The need for more fire marshals in the state was pointed out by Chief Steinkellner, who said the present force was handicapped in its fight against incendiary fires by lack of sufficient investigators. He said the association will ask the legislature this year to remove the fire marshal's office from jurisdiction of the state insurance commissioner and appropriate more funds to increase its staff. This is a necessity, he declared.

Chief R. H. Drum of Green Bay declared that another 25 per cent of the fire losses could be eliminated if the insurance agents would be instructed not to issue more insurance than a building is worth. He said this practice is quite general and that it has led to an increase in arson and incendiary.

Cites Example

The chief recalled an instance in Green Bay when there was a fire with a loss of many thousands of dollars and the owner collected more money than he should have. He declared investigation showed this fire must have been set, but that no definite proof was available. With an investigator, however, the chief sent out a recommendation that all other policies held by this man be cancelled. This report was sent back to the insurance salesman and he, in turn, notified the owner.

"This practice of sending these secret reports back to the insurance salesman is a most vicious one," Chief Drum declared. "These reports should be kept secret to save trouble for the department and for the investigator. There must be some change in this system."

Just declared that one state in which politics played havoc with the work of the fire department was Illinois. He pointed to the case of Danville, Ill., where following a recent election the fire chief and 35 of the 43 men in the department lost their jobs and the posts were filled by the new mayor. The fire losses in this city immediately were boosted considerably.

Blame for this situation was laid to the door of the mayor and the politicians by Just. He said that he had personally worked in this city for almost two months in a drive to attempt to have the department put under the civil service system but that the drive failed because of opposition by the politicians.

Urges Use of Covers

Just, previous to the discussion, discussed methods by which departments can reduce losses which are attendant to fires. He urged the use of covers to save floors, furniture, equipment, stock and goods when fires are being fought. He said that 25 per cent of all losses result from fire and 75 per cent can be reduced materially, especially by using salvage covers. He also pointed out that volunteer fire departments can avoid much criticism by the use of these covers because they help to reduce losses.

The romance connected with the discovery of fire and the gradual discovery of its many uses was outlined by Clarence R. James, secretary and treasurer of the Wisconsin State Fire Prevention association, Milwaukee. He told some of the tales connected with the discovery of fire and declared that fire, as an agency, was the greatest preventable scourge, while the greatest benefit to the world is insurance against it. It is greater than war, poverty or politics, he said. He called it greater than all the armies of the world.

"Fire blazed the trail of progress for the world," James said. "When the people discovered how to produce fire at will they took another progressive step. The uses of fire are limitless. They enter into every phase of our social and industrial life.

"But at the same time the great beneficial agency has caused some of the world's greatest disasters. Every large city in the world has experienced fires that are historical. More than 10,000 persons were burned to death in the United States last year. Fifteen thousand more were maimed or crippled. And the loss in property in the United States last year was $500,000,000.

"Man has worked from the beginning of time to own something. It is an almost fundamental instinct to acquire and protect property and it was this protection instinct which brought about the first insurance by a king over 6,000 years ago. Commercially the first insurance was issued following the great fire in London in 1666. At the end of that year there was a few thousand dollars in insurance in effect. Today there is over $150,000,000,000 in fire insurance in effect in the United States alone."

Most of this, the speaker claimed, is in the hands of stock fire insurance companies who sell insurance to protect property for a definite time at a definite price with the loss restricted to a definite amount. He pointed out that no business is so important or essential to the nation and yet receives such little recognition as an industry. He said industry is the least understood and the most misunderstood. He urged more harmony between fire departments and insurance companies because they are working for the mutual interests of the people.

Following the two talks and the discussion the fire chiefs heard the reports of the secretary and treasurer and then adjourned to the dumping grounds on W. Washington-st where they saw a demonstration of various commercial fire extinguishers. The extinguishers were used to show how various kinds of fires should be attacked and put out. The work was explained by Frank R. Daniel, chief engineer for the Wisconsin Rating bureau, who also conducted the demonstration. At this time the firemen also watched Just explain several uses for salvage covers by demonstrating them.

Alaska can produce 1,500,000 cords of pulpwood annually which can be converted into 1,000,000 tons of newsprint, or more than one-fourth of the present yearly consumption of the United States.

THE GOVERNOR'S UTILITY PROGRAM

One of the important issues in Wisconsin politics concerns the plan sponsored by Governor LaFollette under which the construction of publicly owned and statewide utilities is contemplated.

The measure has too many angles to be detailed on this page but, roughly, the idea is to authorize the construction of such utilities in duplication of existing ones and in competition therewith.

For this purpose the constitution would have to be amended in order that municipalities, or special utility districts including more than one municipality, could borrow larger sums of money than now permitted and because the plan is an ambitious one that would take tens of millions.

We have had competitive utilities before. No memory that goes back to the savage losses they entailed could look upon the governor's program except with alarm.

A monopoly in anything is abhorrent. The reason for this lies in the power of the monopoly to abuse its position and charge extortionate prices.

Just as private monopoly is abhorrent a public monopoly or a monopoly over which the government has control is not only meritorious but highly beneficial.

It is meritorious because it is plain that it may produce what it has to sell cheaper than if it divides the field. And it is beneficial because that advantage is a public advantage.

The state of Wisconsin has the authority to fix the prices to be charged by its utilities. For that purpose the governor is empowered to appoint a public service commission of three members, one of whose terms expires every two years. The word of this commission is final unless it can be demonstrated before the supreme court that its rates are so unreasonable, on the one hand as to gouge the public, or on the other hand to confiscate the property of the utility, that is to make it operate without gain under which conditions it must eventually lose its property.

We have had excellent public service commissions, and to put it bluntly, we have had very inferior ones.

We have had excellent public service commissions when we elected able governors who appointed able commissioners.

That is the story in a nutshell. It all goes back to the people. If they use their heads in selecting talented men for the principal elective positions we will fare very well in regard to the work of the public service commission. If they don't, whose fault is it when the government limps?

We are further opposed, and emphatically, to Governor LaFollette's plan because it is a retreat, a vast and disorderly retreat, a retreat from intelligence and a retreat from construction.

Look at the possible results from both sides. Supposing after the expenditure of all these millions and the duplication of the plants that the publicly owned plants do not get a fair share of the business and must be operated at a loss. The only way to meet that loss is through higher taxes.

And supposing this venture, like some of those undertaken in North Dakota, turns out to be a flat failure. Then we must pay taxes to meet gigantic interest sums as well as to retire over a period of twenty years the principal amounts borrowed.

On the other hand assume that the new utilities were successful, and you may gaze upon the ruin, at the tens, indeed the hundreds of millions of dollars that would be lost by our people, the people of Wisconsin, in their investments in existing utilities made honestly throughout the years. Thus the venture would itself be destructive of wealth.

To make that result plain we will use the actual figures concerning our own utility, the Wisconsin Michigan Power Company.

This system covers several other populous cities besides Appleton. The actual cost or valuation of its property upon the 1st of January, 1931, according to the Public Service Commission, was nearly 19 millions. That amount of actual, honest-to-goodness money had gone into it.

Now let us see who owns it. It has bond issues outstanding of 10 millions. The trustee who pays the coupons when the interest is due estimates that these bonds are held by 4,000 different people, a vast majority of whom live in Wisconsin. Thus the average holding would be $2,500 of bonds but that is hardly accurate because some of the large insurance companies have big holdings in the neighborhood of $250,000. Most likely the average holding of Wisconsin people is about $1,000. But Wisconsin people are policy holders in the big insurance companies too.

After the bonds come the preferred stock, of which there is outstanding issues of about 4 million. The books of the company show that this preferred stock is held by 4,160 people, almost all of whom are residents of Wisconsin. These people, it will be seen, have an average of about $1,000 apiece, in this solvent, well-managed, and as has been often demonstrated, public-spirited concern.

The common stock of the company is held by a holding company but the stock in this holding company is again distributed throughout the land, and held by thousands of different people.

Where in the world will the people of this community accomplish any good by destroying 9 million dollars worth of property in which our own people, over 8,000 of them, have invested 14 millions?

The argument often advanced to support the governor's proposal is that the plan will operate as a threat over existing utilities resulting in their consent to satisfactory rates. Were this its only purpose the risk of opening the doors to the creation of such a colossal debt on some wave of popular sentiment fanned by honest and misled, or just plain wily, agitators, would be far out of proportion to any possible good that can ensue. The threat is not against the utility. It is against the people.

As against a utility trying to jump over the fences there is but one real threat—a public service commission that will work.

All through the ages people have demolished splendid laws, fine constitutions, excellent institutions, deserted them for some theory toggled out in tinsel and daubed up with paint, because they were temporarily dissatisfied with the way their existing laws worked and unfortunately ignorant of the fact that the fault was in their laws but in themselves.

This plan sponsored by the governor is a theory that has been advanced by some college professors and others interested in municipal government. It is no disparagement of these men to say that while they were good in their books the only callouses they ever grew on their hands came from swinging golf clubs.

In other words it is the century old fight between theory and practice, between parlor socialism scolded, and the rule well known by the housewife in the kitchen that it takes muscle to mop the floor.

The state has full power of discipline over these utilities. Sometimes one like the Telephone Company gets cantankerous, hankers after litigation, insists upon court action. If it is right it will be upheld. If it is wrong it will get a bellyful. Our cities now have a bonded indebtedness. So have our villages. So have our school districts. So have our counties. Necessity may require further debt in communities like ours to build sewage plants that we may avoid polluting the river. If we are going to have further debts let them be created for necessities, not for experiments—for things of long and proven worth, not for theories.

COLLECTIVE FARMING

The Moscow markets have as yet taken no steps to make room for collective farm trade. Investigations made by the department concerning the Dorogomilov, Arbat, Butursk and Sukharev markets reveal that no special booths have as yet been opened. The few collective farmers who bring their goods are surrounded by speculators, who buy up all their produce, and resell at much higher prices.

When asked why there is no collective farm trade on the premises, the director of the Arbat Market declared that, "in general, there will be no collective farm-trade on this market, as this is not a proletarian district." But although the Dorogomilov Market is in a proletarian district conditions there seem to be the same as at the Arbat Market. The collective farmer who brings his wares is left to his own notions of how best to dispose of his stock. It is true a few booths for collective farmers have been provided at the Central Market but, strange to say, these people are not occupying them, but, instead, the market is being used by dealers. The dry goods store opened in that market to supply collective farmers is not functioning. At the Proletarsky Market, in another proletarian district, the Consumers' Cooperative Union adopted a scheme of its own which is to buy from the collective farmers at prices far below market values, and then resell them at an advance of 11 per cent.

The Department of Trade has taken steps to eliminate immediately the obstacles confronting collective farmers in the development of profitable trade on the Moscowian markets—Moscow Daily News (Russia).

TO ALUMNI AND OTHER FOLKS WITH AN INTEREST IN THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

Jonah has received from the publicity department at Madison, about eighty window stickers picturing a Wisconsin football carrying a football. Above him is the venerable old line: "ON WISCONSIN." The stickers are attractive enough and measure 3 3/4 by about 4 1/2 inches and are attached to the inside of your car's rear window.

If the football season has nipped you and you are particularly interested in Wisconsin this year, drop us a line. We'll give 'em out until they're all gone. Either enclose a stamped and addressed envelope or ask us to leave a sticker to be picked up by you here at the Post-Crescent office.

Texas is a smart state. Daown theah, they have a state treasurer who's just three feet eight inches tall. One thing sure, he won't be running away with many of the state funds.

But migosh, Texas is STILL fighting over who's the governor. Ma Ferguson won, according to the original count, by about 4,000 votes. But the present governor, Mister Sterling, says that about 10,000 of Ma's votes are just no good, dearie.

Well, if the people who voted more than once don't get too disgusted at Governor Sterling's remark, maybe it'll carry some weight.

Y'know, it's a good thing that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is headed by a Democrat, a good thing for Maine, we mean. FUNDAMENTALS

We must get back to our bases, the old simple truths of all time: That only by steadfast endeavor was mortal intended to climb;

That life was a head to the scuffer, but treads its unimutable way;

And the joys which are claimed without labor are lost with the first rainy day.

Security comes with deserving and not from the goddess of chance. The soldier who'd live through the battle must learn how to handle his lance.

Life's laws will not alter to please us, unchanged to the end they remain.

Who wants the assurance of knowledge, must study in wisdom to gain.

And whether we face it with scorning, or whether we like it or no,

Who seeks to be honored and trusted has only the one road to go.

We may talk about riches and praise them, but no man can call them secure.

For it's only the things of the spirit, such as courage and faith which endure.

We must get back to our bases; to the heavens we've known in the past;

To a cheerful submission to duty wherever our fortunes are cast.

To the tasks which are spread out before us and give them the best we possess,

And admit that in character only a man may be sure of success.

THE MIDDLEWOMAN

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

WHAT TO DO ABOUT DEAD TEETH.

The reason for the chaotic state of present medical practice in reference to focal infection is faulty medical education. Too much high-browism, too much mere book learning, too much wood pulp in medical education in this country. Our Class A medical schools labor to make all students specialists, and our national, state or provincial organization (medical society) fosters this shoddy specialism and discourages old-fashioned general practice.

Not only do we doctors quarrel among ourselves over the application of the local infection principle in practice (it is a well established principle, and not a mere theory), but in many cases where the presumptive source of the trouble is in the teeth the unhappy victim has to decide for himself whether to follow the physician's advice or the dentist's. This, too, is a natural consequence of our absurd medical education. Today there is no sound reason why dentists should not receive their education in the regular medical schools, and then such technical or special postgraduate training as such a specialty as theirs requires.

Both physicians and these impatient specialists who are doctors in everything but license, become a bit topheavy with all this ultra education they have to ingest in their school days, and it requires some good hard knocks to put a little horse sense into their heads after they get into practice. Some of them become impervious to horse sense, especially the pampered pets of dotting newly rich relatives.

Now what a precious lot of intellectual nincompoops we physicians and dentists are in respect to the problem of dead or pulpless teeth. First the dentists pull and haul at the dazed patient to persuade him to have the nerve killed or to avoid the procedure by all means. While they spit refined venom at each other over the question the patient, weary of paying for "treatments" and fed up with discomfort, drops into some unpretentious little dental office up in his own suburb and has the nerve removed (pulp destroyed) and the root canal filled.

All goes well and the patient sits back and smiles contentedly for several weeks, months or years. But sooner or later he falls into the clutches of the highbrow dentist or doctor. Once more, innocently complains of an ache or pain somewhere out of the picture and in two jerks he is having all his teeth X-rayed.

Right here, in order to finish within the time limit, let it be clearly understood that the question of whether to remove dead teeth (pulpless teeth) from which the nerve has been destroyed or taken out) or leave them undisturbed is in every instance a question of opinion. My own opinion is that such teeth should remain in the jaw until definite evidence of root infection (not more X-ray films) makes dental surgery necessary, just as tho the teeth were not "dead" or pulpless.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Tonsil Removal.

Worried over my daughter's tonsils. Have heard that tonsils are likely to grow back in again if removed before the child is (so many) years old. (D. F.)

Answer—Scam is every bit of tonsil removed, no matter what method is employed or who the surgeon is. In any case portions of tonsil left in the throat may subsequently hypertrophy. There is no good reason why normal tonsil tissue should be removed.

Vaccination.

Would like to have my little girl vaccinated on the leg but have been told doctors will not do it on the left for fear of some sort of injury (Mrs. L. T.)

Answer—A quaint idea. The vaccination lesion requires more care than it would on the arm, perhaps, but it is immaterial where it shall be.

Our Ignorance Dispelled.

I am surprised at your ignorance of the treatment of poison ivy, poison oak, poison sumac, etc. I am very sensitive to these, and as soon as I feel the first irritation or discover the first appearance of small water blisters I bathe the skin in alcohol, keeping it wet for 20 minutes or a half hour. Then I wash with water as hot as I can stand and any good toilet soap. I mean wash—mix up a good lather and scrub with a rag till it seems another stroke will take the hide off. Then dry, and avoid nostrums or powders—better expose the skin to the air. (W. M.)

Answer—Thank you. The early and thorough use of soap and water, preferably hot water, even crude laundry soap, is one of the best practical treatments, or preventives. Similar application of plain gasoline for prolonged sponging of the affected skin is excellent. Alcohol is probably a good solvent of the toxin or irritant, if it is available in the emergency.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

At last the Tynmites were set free. They were, one said, "I'll bet that something's going to happen while we're up in the air."

"The blockheads said we'd float around among white clouds, safe and sound, but being way up here's enough to give us all a scare."

Then Scouty answered, "Oh, sit still, or you will make us take a spill. We always seek adventure and that's what we're going to get. Of course we don't know where we're bound, but some fine place soon may be found. Why start to worry now, when nothing's really happened yet?"

The basket then began to shake until it seemed that it would break. The blockhead at the stairtop shouted, "Good bye, Tynmites."

"We hope you'll come again some day, when we all have more time to play. Good luck on your new journey. You will see a lot of sights."

The basket then moved, sure, but slow, and Duncy shouted, "Here we go! I hope a little breeze picks up so we can gain some speed."

"I'm wondering why we stay in air, but here we are, so I don't care. To make me feel real comfortable, a snooze is all I need."

Just then they started rising fast, right through the clouds, until at last they saw some stars above them and wee Windy said, "It's night. Perhaps it's raining down below. We are so high we cannot know. The stars are very brilliant and they give us lots of light."

A little star then came nearby and shouted, "Lasso me! I'll try to take you for a speedy ride through the open air." Said Scouty, "Don't take us too far." And then he roped the shooting star. They started moving very fast, which gave them all a scare.

(The Tynmites meet with accident in the next story.)

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — Senator Samuel Shortridge of California, tall, serious and slow-spoken, always had a favorite comment when he discussed his career as a public official. "I've only held two public offices in my life—janitor of the Salem high school and United States senator from California."

Now he is to lose the senatorship. One Mr. Tallant Tubbs eliminated him in the republican primary.

Shortridge's departure from the senate will remove from that body one of California's prime boosters. The senator never lost an opportunity to extol the merits of his adopted state (he is a native of Iowa) in glowing terms.

Florida Vs. California

His seat in the senate is directly across from that of Fletcher of Florida. The two engaged in many disputes about the relative merits of California and Florida.

Fletcher seldom let him get by unchallenged in his claims. Their arguments at times afforded the senate some of its most amusing moments. Shortridge would always give Florida its due but he always asserted, too, that California had a little bit sweeter oranges, just a trifle larger avocados.

They called him the "silver-tongued orator of the Pacific" before he came to the senate. On the senate floor, however, he rarely displayed his oratorical ability.

He was fond of interjecting remarks in a running debate. This was done with much ceremony. Shortridge always does things with a bit of a flourish and grandiosely.

Bowing gravely, the essence of courtesy and deference, he breaks in for a question or an observation. His courtesy is unfailing when he deals with his colleagues. And it's a brand of courtesy definitely "Shortridgesque."

Severe, Too
But he can be stern as well. He is jealous of the traditions of the senate and uses severity with him who dares to flaunt them.

That reference to being janitor of the Salem high school is no idle one. He helped finance his way through school by acting as janitor.

Barbs

To those who have no faith in government, we want to call attention to the regularity with which bills always arrive no later than the second of the month.

A writer says that suffrage for women hasn't helped anybody. But isn't he forgetting the delicatessen owners?

A man in Italy celebrated his 100th birthday by eating garlic alone. And if he were in the United States, he would be alone for quite a while to come.

Some of Hitler's foes are advocating the Von Hindenburg give him enough rope, but Hindenburg is evidently afraid Hitler might hang Germany, too.

Rising farm prices have cheered the farmer, a banker says. Imagine how cheerful you would be if you found that you would lose only $1000 instead of $3000 on this year's crop.

And some men go thru' life with both eyes riveted on the dollar. They never see the quality side of the road.

Certainly, you can buy chain or catalog clothes this Fall for as little as $9 a suit . . . but where there's no quality, there's no saving.

In your fight for economy, if you have been buying cheap clothing, we suggest that you give your dollars a chance to at least look at real merchandise.

Roosevelt Off To Denver in Western Trip

Thousands Hear Democrat is Candidate Deliver Topeka Speech

Aboard Roosevelt Special — Gov. With his "farm speech"—one of the most important of his major talks and the longest one he has made so far—behind him, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt rode on into the west today, out of the prairie lands and up into the Rocky Mountains. He left Topeka shortly after last midnight.

Ten thousand men and women—their number was estimated by national guard officers serving as his escort—stood for an hour and twenty minutes in a burning noon-day sun in the Kansas capital yesterday and listened while the Democratic presidential candidate told them from the steps of the capitol building what he proposes to do for farm relief should he be elected.

Thousands more shouted their greetings as he rode out to the Kansas Free fair with his running mate, Speaker John N. Garner, who announced he had come "to show you that I wear neither bow tie nor horns though I come from Texas," and with Harry H. Woodring, the Democratic governor of Kansas.

Governor Roosevelt then wound up the day with a series of conferences with party leaders from Missouri, Iowa, Oklahoma, Texas, Nebraska and Kansas. There was an almost continuous parade of them through the late afternoon and evening in and out of Governor Woodring's home, where they met their candidates for president and vice president.

Leaders Part Company

Last night the governor of New York and the speaker of the United States house of representatives parted company, Garner continuing his journey to St. Louis, and Roosevelt heading toward Denver where, after stops at Colby and Goodland, in northwest Kansas, he was to arrive at 2 p. m. (mountain standard time).

A warm and lively middlewestern greeting was given Governor Roosevelt and Speaker Garner as they appeared on the sun-swept south steps of the capitol in Topeka yesterday. There were shouts and applause and whistles. In the crowd was one elderly man who wore, with conventional tailoring grey business suit of expensive material, huge cowboy hat. As Roosevelt appeared, he threw the hat high into the air. It was returned to him later, trampled and dusty.

There was laughter when Governor Roosevelt said with a smile: "I have run a farm in Georgia for eight years—and run it without profit."

There were cheers when he said: "We must adopt the definite policy of giving those who have lost the title to their farms, now held by institutions seeking credit from governmental agencies, the preferential opportunity of getting their property back."

Outlines 6 Points

After proposing as immediate and permanent measures for farm relief, reorganization of the department of agriculture, "looking toward the administrative machinery needed to build a program of national planning," formulation of a definite policy looking to planned use of land, national leadership in reduction and redistribution of taxes, and refinancing farm mortgages, Governor Roosevelt advanced six points, which he said, "most of the reasonable leaders of agriculture have agreed" should be included in any plan for farm relief.

Governor Roosevelt has planned to deliver three more major speeches during his three weeks' swing around the United States. There will be one dealing with the railroads—either in Salt Lake City or in San Francisco, he had not decided which last night—one on public utilities in Portland, Ore., and a third, the subject as yet unannounced, in Sioux City, Iowa.

Wisconsin Leads Country as State Of Home-Owners

61.8 Per Cent Own Places Of Residence in Badger State

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Wash. Correspondent
Washington—Wisconsin leads the country as a state of home-owners. Of the 711,889 families in Wisconsin, 440,197 or 61.8 per cent own their homes. Maine is second, with 60.6 per cent of its 197,826 families owning their homes, and Utah is third, with 60 per cent of its families living in owned homes.

In the country as a whole, only 46.8 per cent of the 29,904,663 families own their homes.

In Wisconsin, there are 256,811 tenant families, or 38.1 per cent of the state's families, while the tenure of 14,881 families, or 2.1 per cent, was not revealed by the 1930 census.

Of all the families in Wisconsin, 528,174 or 74.2 per cent, are headed by native whites, of which 218,965 families are of native parentage and 309,208 are of foreign or mixed parentage. There are 178,518 Wisconsin families, or 25.1 per cent, headed by foreign-born whites, 2,524 negro families or 0.4 per cent, and 2,673 families of other races. In the country as a whole, 70.1 per cent of the families are native white.

19.2 per cent foreign-born white, and 9.4 per cent negro.

A family, according to the census definition, is "a group of persons, related either by blood or by marriage, or by adoption, who live together as one household, usually sharing the same table." Single persons living alone in a home are classified as "one person families," but hotels, boarding houses, institutions, etc., which in previous censuses were classified as "families" were not so classified in 1930.

The color and nativity of a family is determined by the head of the family, who is the husband and father if he is alive and living with the family, or otherwise the mother or the chief breadwinner. Thus the percentage of foreign-born families exceeds the percentage of foreign-born persons in the population, since the father may be foreign-born while the mother and all the children may be native-born.

99 Per Cent White

In Wisconsin, 99.1 per cent of the population is white, and of the whites, 86 per cent are native-born. Despite the fact that the Badger State is first in home-owning, home owning has steadily declined in this century. In 1920, 62.5 per cent of the Badger families owned their homes and in 1910, 63.4 per cent, and in 1900, 65.2 per cent.

In urban territory, 54.4 per cent of the homes were owned in Wisconsin as against 45.2 per cent in the country as a whole and on Wisconsin farms, 75.6 per cent of the homes were owned, and on rural non-farm territory in Wisconsin, 64.3 per cent of the homes were owned. In the country as a whole, 45.2 per cent of the non-farm homes were owned.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON
Fighting For Time

Perhaps you've never heard of the battle of Monocacy, in Maryland, but according to "Fighting for Time," by Glenn H. Worthington, it was the decisive battle of the Civil War.

Making no literary pretensions, the book states its major premise early and then sets out to prove it by quoting from statements of generals, statesmen and the men in the fighting.

In case you don't know, Monocacy was the engagement between General Jubal A. Early's Confederates and General Lew Wallace's slender band which had been sent out to save Washington. Fought in were living in 624,201 dwellings, comprising 559,919 one-family dwellings, 53,082 two-family dwellings, and 9,250 dwellings occupied by three or more families. In the group of dwellings occupied by three or more families, there were 41,906 families, or an average of four and a half families to the apartment house.

But the average for the state as a whole was just one and one-tenth family to the dwelling.

Furthermore, 51 per cent of these families had radios, 59 per cent in urban areas, 33.3 per cent in farms, and 45.5 per cent in rural-non-farm areas.

July, 1864, it came as the most important engagement of the last Confederate invasion of Maryland.

The result of the battle, so Worthington tells us, was unimportant. As a matter of fact, Early drove Wallace back in great confusion, took 700 prisoners, and proceeded to the very gates of the nation's capital. The important part was that the battle delayed Early's march for 24 hours and gave Lincoln time to muster forces for the defense of Washington.

But to us, at an rate, the most book is the one devoted to the diary of a Union soldier captured in the battle. He was imprisoned at Danville, Va., and his picture of life in a Confederate prison is both clearly and painstakingly drawn.

If you are interested in history, you will find interesting documents in "Fighting for Time."

Better Than Soda for Stomach Agony

Certainly repeated trials have shown you that soda can not be counted on to end your stomach agony. And magnesia is no better.

If you really want to get rid of stomach distress, forget these so-called alkaline digestants and just take a tablespoonful of artificial stomach juice, or mentha pepsin, with your meals. The difference is magical. No gas. No pain. No bloating. No unpleasant symptoms of any kind.

You can absolutely count on mentha pepsin. Money back, says Schlitz Bros. Co., any time it lets you down.

75 Women Make Trip To Kohler

ABOUT 75 women made the trip to Kohler Wednesday which was sponsored by the Better Homes department of Appleton Woman's club. The party left the club at 8 o'clock in the morning, had luncheon at Kohler, and took a trip through the industrial plant and the model home. They returned to Appleton about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The trip was arranged by Mrs. J. R. Whitman and Mrs. W. D. Schlafer.

Lee Solinger was elected president of the Jewish Young People's club at the meeting Wednesday night at Appleton Woman's club. Lillian Gabriel was chosen vice president and Leon Foreman was named secretary and treasurer.

Reorganization plans for the group were placed in the hands of Rabbi S. Wrubel, the new sponsor. A committee on constitution and program will meet soon to work out plans for the year.

Miss Laura Blick, 900 N. State-st., was hostess to the P. W. club Tuesday evening. Court whist was played and prizes awarded to the Misses Jennie and Martha Boehler. Mrs. William G. Keller was a guest. The next meeting will be Sept. 29 at the home of Miss Baehler, 1000 N. Richmond-st.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Roeder, 304 S. Morrison-st., entertained the Friendship club at their home Tuesday night. Prizes at bridge were won by Elmer Rehmer and Harold Roeder. The next meeting will be in two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wissman, 519 W. Summer-st.

The N. S. club met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. J. Thompson, 830 1/2 N. Bennett-st. Eight members were present. The next meeting will be the second Wednesday in October at the home of Mrs. A. E. Briggs, Franklin-st.

A birthday dinner will be given by Appleton Girls' club at 6:30 Friday evening in the Gold room of Conway hotel. The committee in charge includes the Misses Mabel Younger, Helen Voss and Bessie Poland.

Thirteen women attended the meeting of Rebekah Three Links club Wednesday afternoon at Old Fellow hall. The meeting provided entertainment, and hostesses were Mrs. Herman Meyers and Mrs. Amelia Finkle.

Mrs. Theodore Belling and Mrs. James Baillet won the prizes at bridge at the first meeting of Lady Elks Wednesday afternoon at Elk hall. Five tables were in play.

Women's Relief corps, Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, will meet at 2:30 Friday afternoon at Elk hall. This will be a business meeting.

Mrs. Grunert Named District Leader of Veterans Auxiliary

Mrs. Edith Grunert, Appleton, was elected district president of United Spanish War Veterans Auxiliary of the third district at the eighth annual convention Wednesday in Oshkosh. Mrs. Clara Arnold, Fond du Lac, was chosen senior vice president, Mrs. Louise Grube, Sheboygan, was named junior vice president, and Mrs. Lillian Conard, Green Bay, was elected chaplain. Appointive officers are Mrs. Mildred Zerbel, Appleton, secretary; Mrs. Emma Hassman, Appleton, treasurer; and Mrs. Evangeline Farwell, Kaukauna, musician.

Mrs. Anna Jessmier, Los Angeles, Calif., national president of the Auxiliary, was the speaker at the morning meeting. She outlined what work the California auxiliaries have been doing. Mrs. Jessmier, who has been visiting in Wisconsin for the past month, is a former resident of Appleton, Neenah, and Fond du Lac. Over 75 women from Green Bay, Appleton, Marinette, Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, and Ripon attended.

A nation-wide membership drive is to be inaugurated this year, and honor certificates will be awarded members securing 10 or more new members.

Fifteen Appleton women attended the convention.

Green Bay Girl to Wed Marinette Man

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Straubel, 826 S. Quincy-st., Green Bay, have announced the approaching marriage of their daughter, Marian, to Irvin Thomas Steffe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Steffe, Marinette. The wedding will take place in October. Miss Straubel was graduated from Lawrence college in 1927 and is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Green Bay Couple to Be Married Next Week

Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Schober, 602 Main-st., Green Bay, have announced the approaching marriage of their daughter, Marjorie Elizabeth, to Carl C. Emmel, Green Bay, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Emmel, 415 E. Roosevelt-st., Appleton. The wedding will take place Sept. 20.

STAR TO OPEN IT Philadelphia — When this city celebrates the 250th anniversary of William Penn's landing on American shores, the light of a star will illuminate portraits of various Quaker colonists. The star Scheidt has been chosen for this task because its light, in taking 250 years to reach the earth, was created about the time Penn landed in America.

ROMANCE OF THE "BIG TOPS"

A romance of the "Big Tops" will culminate in the marriage of Vera Bruce, above, and Alfredo Codona, right, veteran circus trapeze artists known to thousands here and in Europe. Codona was the husband of Lillian Leitzel, aerialist queen who fell to her death during a performance in Copenhagen 18 months ago. At the time Codona was only a short distance away, appearing with his brother and Miss Bruce in a Berlin circus. Codona later took his wife's ashes back to Los Angeles for interment. The wedding will take place Sept. 18 in San Antonio, Tex., during the convention of the Circus Fans' Association.

Parties

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Meyer, Greenville, entertained 40 guests at dinner and supper Sunday, in honor of the confirmation of their son, De Forest, which occurred at the Greenville Lutheran church that day. The guests included the Rev. and Mrs. Leonard Kasper and family; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Strey and family; Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Much and family; Dale; Mr. and Mrs. St. Therese church; and family; Mrs. Louise Schmidt; Oshkosh; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Meyer, and family; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Strey, Rudolph Kopiske, Mrs. Anna Christensen, Neenah; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Meyer, Menasha; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Meyer and family, J. Gottlieb and Julius Kops, Winches-ter.

Twenty-five tables of cards were in play at the party given by Group No. 2 of the parish church Wednesday night at the parish hall. Prizes at schafkopf were won by Mrs. Harry De Bruin, Mrs. E. J. Schaar, J. Seidl, and Charles Un-ruh, at bridge by W. Kimball and Mrs. J. Monaghan, at dice by Miss Margaret Williams and Dolores Helman, and at plumpack by Mrs. Anton Heckel. Mrs. Nick Griesbach and Mrs. John Helman were in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Haskett, 303 E. Maple-st., were surprised Wednesday night on their return from a week's visit at Milwaukee. Sixteen guests were present. Prizes at schafkopf were won by Mr. Haskett, Miss Daisy Basch, and Henry Bartz, and at five hundred rumby by Miss Margaret Mauthe and Miss Dorothy Bartz.

Teachers of Appleton high school and wives of faculty members were entertained at a picnic supper Wednesday night at the Schwerke cottage on Lake Winnebago. Community singing provided entertainment during the evening. Miss May Webster was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. G. Zuehlke won the schafkopf prize and Mrs. H. R. Ladwig the prize at dice at the fifth of a series of card parties given by the Auxiliary to Spanish War Veterans Wednesday afternoon in the basement of Appleton State bank. Four tables were in play.

Miss Doris Kobs, 1717 N. Appleton-st., entertained 12 guests at her home Wednesday evening in honor of her fourteenth birthday anniversary. Games were played, prizes going to Miss Martha Luedtke and Miss Thelma Last.

Lodge to Sponsor Food Sale

PLANS for a food sale to be held Saturday, Sept. 24, were made at the meeting of Women's Catholic Order of Foresters Wednesday night at Catholic home. Mrs. Gertrude Femal, Mrs. Helen Felt, and Mrs. Norah Bailey will be in charge. Assistants will be the Misses Ella and Clara O'Connor, Mrs. Katherine Otto, Mrs. Sadie Otto, Mrs. Ella Otto, Mrs. Katherine O'Leary, Mrs. Josephine Peeters, Mrs. Mary Peeters, and Mrs. Hilda Petersen.

Cards were played after the meeting, prizes at schafkopf being won by Mrs. Joseph Schreiter and Mrs. Charles Wettengel, and at bridge by Mrs. H. Van Wyk and Mrs. A. Clemons.

Four bowling teams were organized at the bowling meeting which followed the court session. Play will begin the first Thursday in October at the Eagles alleys.

Members of the court will recite the rosary at the home of Mrs. Catherine Becher, 829 E. Fremont-st., at 8 o'clock Thursday night.

An invitation to grand chapter and the program for that session were read at the meeting of Fidelity chapter, Order of Eastern Star, Wednesday night at Masonic temple. The grand chapter will convene at Scottish Rite Cathedral, Milwaukee, Oct. 4, 5, and 6. Miss Elsie Koppin, Miss Rose Helm, and Percy E. Wistner will attend by virtue of their offices as matron, associate matron, and patron, respectively.

A group of past matrons of Green Bay will be guests of the local chapter and put on special work at the next meeting Sept. 28. There will be special music by the Green Bay members. An old fashioned harvest supper will be served at 6:30 to chapter members and their guests. Each local member is to bring her own sandwiches and one covered dish. Anyone having old lamps or old fashioned dishes to lend may call the matron. Committees for the last quarter were appointed. Stunts and games provided entertainment after the meeting.

A number of members of Deborah Rebekah lodge attended the district convention of Rebekahs Wednesday at Stockbridge. Mildred Martin, Mrs. Edna Gauslin, N. Drew-st., at the same time.

Ethics, Sportsmanship Essential for Bridge

BY ELY CULBERTSON

A high standard of ethics and sportsmanship is essential in the bidding and play of Contract Bridge not only because any game which lacks these essentials is not a game that appeals to ladies and gentlemen, but the playing of any game with cheats and crooks is unpleasant in the extreme.

Mr. Oscar Stowens of New York submitted the following question to me:

"Playing last night with three friends, who have been playing together regularly for about a year, I held the following hand, at West:

"East and West vulnerable; partnership, 35.

Spade, 6; Hearts, A 7 4; Diamonds, 6 4 3; Clubs, A K Q 7 4 2.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1NT	Pass	2NT	Pass
3NT	Double	Pass	Pass

"Opening the club suit, I ran my six clubs and the Ace of hearts, and before the game was finished, the contract was set five tricks for a penalty of 1000.

"Not to go into the merits of the bidding or the correctness of same, when the hand was finished, I was accused of being very unsportsmanlike and of playing 'Coffee House Bridge' because I did not bid my clubs and thus warn my opponents that they could not make a notrump contract and that they had better get together in some suit in order to make game. In view of the fact that the only bid I could make was in clubs, that we were vulnerable and had a part-score, that our opponents would certainly bid us up, and from the known conservative characteristics of South — judging him for at least three honor-tricks for his Opening bid, and therefore leaving my partner with very little assistance for me—I thought that a pass was the best bid I could make to see how the hand would develop. I was, of course, pleasantly surprised when our opponents, instead of attempting to show a suit, reached the contract of three notrump, which I was sure we could defeat severely.

"Now the question is: Was it poor sportsmanship on my part or was there anything tricky in not bidding my hand, and in not disclosing to my opponents the strength that I held—especially since they knew my propensity for bidding on the most minimum holdings—in letting them judge that my hand was practically a bust, and letting each expect to find the strength that was lacking in his hand in his partner's hand? The sum for which we played was very small and of really no consideration to any of the players, but what is of utmost importance to me is the question of ethics. Is the game played to get the most points possible out of the hand, or are you supposed to help out your opponents' poor bidding by putting in a legitimate bid of your own and thus saving them from penalties into which they would otherwise foolishly plunge, or is it unethical to pass a hand when you have a bid in your own hand?"

I am very happy to answer Mr. Stowens' question. There was nothing in the least unethical in Mr. Stowens' pass. The fact, as pointed out, that he had a reputation for being a rather free bidder, very much inclined on the slightest provocation to take a chance on the bidding—often to his regret—is not a factor in the case. A player has a right—an absolute, ethical right, if you please—to bid his hand as he chooses, and the question of ethics or sportsmanship can never enter into a change of face in the bidding. When the bold become cautious and the timid bold, it may be disconcerting to the opponents, but it certainly is not unethical.

Teeth Play Large Part In Beauty

BY ELSIE PIERCE

More and more people and particularly more and more women are realizing what an important part teeth play in the matter of health and in the beauty picture. Types may differ, artists may disagree in their conception of feminine loveliness, brunettes may continue to admire their blonde cousins and visa versa, but all must concede that a lovely smile flashing a healthy, beautiful set of teeth is an enviable asset.

Look at your magazine covers, look at your pictures of screen stars, look at the advertisements. Tooth paste ads are not the only ones that feature a smile and row of teeth like white jewels.

Screen Star's Teeth Sparkle

The screen stars know what an important feature beautiful teeth are. They do not have to be reminded to visit their dentist twice a year to check up, to guard against an incipient infection. They do not wait for toothache to order them to make a dental appointment.

A fortunate few are born with perfectly beautiful teeth, or at least have the permanent set that usually comes after one's seven, grow in perfectly. Marion Nixon and Peggy Shannon, two of filmdom's celebrities have such perfect teeth, even, white, sparkling like jewels, that they are often accused of having false teeth. It would take a very expensive and expert dental mechanic to mold a set like theirs.

Diet for Exercise

The Eskimos don't need dentists. Their strong, healthy, white teeth are characteristic of the race, and attributed to the rough, raw food they eat and the thorough chewing necessary to masticate these foods. Americans, on the other hand, with their soft delicacies, and fancy desserts that melt in your mouth (which is fine for the palate, but not sufficient exercise for the teeth), do need the bi-annual trip to the dentist for thorough going over.

Most modern dentists X-ray the teeth in order to make sure that the thinnest cavity or sign of infection has escaped them. And after your dentist has done the important ground work, do follow his instructions for cleansing the teeth, brushing them properly, and brushing the gums as well as the teeth to give them the necessary massage and stimulation. Also follow diet instructions including plenty of leafy vegetables, roughage, and foods that need thorough chewing. Also if your dentist should tell you that your diet is deficient in calcium, be sure to include foods rich in calcium, as it is very necessary toward preserving strong, healthy teeth.

Old Gardener

THE OLD GARDENER SAYS:

Acidthera bicolor is an attractive little bulbous plant, which is seldom seen, but which is excellent for flowering indoors after the outdoor garden has been killed by early frost. It belongs to the iris family, and has a bulb not exceeding one inch in diameter. The foliage looks like that of the gladiolus, but the bulb makes spikes two or three feet high. The creamy white flowers marked with brown blotches are deliciously fragrant, especially in the evening. After the flowers have gone and the foliage has died down, the bulbs may be allowed to dry out, and planted again early the next summer. It is also possible to grow them out of doors, but they are more useful for autumn blooms in pots.

Never put hot foods in your refrigerator. Wait until they have cooled. The placing of hot food in an electric refrigerator during the freezing period will have a tendency to raise the temperature and interfere to some extent with the rapidity of freezing.

STYLISH AND SOPHISTICATED

BY JOAN SAVOY

If you want to win the man you want—and have several others looking your way—you must choose some frocks that will cooperate with you. There is enough demure femininity — and enough smart sophistication, too — about the autumn offerings to raise your style several numbers with anyone.

This outfit sketched by Barbara Schwinm is a chic case in point.

The ensemble, which comes in a thrilling flamingo red and a mysterious black, is fashioned from a new rough silk.

The dress, designed for teas or cocktail parties, has picked up plenty of style points. Full sleeves are caught just below the elbow and finish with long, tight cuffs. A big bow ties itself alluringly on the right shoulder.

The skirt attaches itself to the blouse under the jacket, and high up under the bust, so nobody can guess how it stays in place. The material molds the hips and the skirt is circular.

A draped turban of black velvet borrows the careless snap of a beret, and succeeds in being sophisticated at the same time. The turban dips over one eye, and sweeps away from the hair on the other side, in the approved new manner.

Slippers of black fabric, featuring a row of tucks, will probably make you take some of the successful steps you have taken. The tucks are unusually feminine, and femininity is the keynote of the new mode.

Avoid jewelry, unless you want a ring or two, as the dress is so decorative in itself that even a casual string of beads would be interfering with your position in the fashion line-up.

Don't Change Handedness Of Child, Patri Advises

BY ANGELO PATRI

If you have a child who is experiencing difficulty with language in any form, if he spells poorly, or reads badly, if he stammers and chokes, if his penmanship is poor, look into the matter of his handedness. This is a clumsy word that covers both hands.

Most of us are born right-handed, some are left-handed, not so many of us use both hands equally well. The important point about all this is the use of the hand we were originally fitted to use.

If on is born right-handed he must use that hand. If he is born left-handed he must use that hand. If an attempt is made to transfer the power from the hand that has it to the hand that has not, there is certain to be trouble.

As a usual thing people are troubled if a child is left-handed. The world seems to be made for the right-handed people. Doors are opened with the right hand, knives and forks are placed for right-handed people, and the left-handers are usually inconvenient for a bit.

Fathers and mothers think this a great hindrance and attempt to train the child to use his right hand. Sometimes the child can use his right hand for simple motor movements like the use of knife and fork. Sometimes he cannot even do that without disturbance of the nervous mechanism.

It is a great mistake to force a left-handed child to learn to write with his right. He isn't going to make much of it and he is going to be greatly fatigued, worried, inconvenienced by the effort. Sometimes it causes a child to stutter, or to drop syllables from his words, or spell poorly. Sometimes it brings on 'tics' of one sort or another.

We had a boy in one of the upper grades whose face twitched and when we put him under the care of specialists they discovered that the lad had been left-handed but had been forced to use his right hand. It took a year or two of training with the other hand to cure him, but we managed it because he wanted to be cured, his people wanted him cured, and the school was anxious to have him cured.

There is a notion that left-handed people are not too bright. That is wrong. We find that among feeble-minded children there are left-handed children, but among the bright children there are left-handed children too. Left-handedness does not make a child feeble-minded. Changing his handedness will not cure him if he is feeble-minded.

Let the children use whatever hand they wish. Give them as much opportunity to use their hands skillfully as you can manage. The intelligence of any human being is promoted by the skillful use of the hands. The more varied that use, the more accurate, the more and the richer the contribution the hands make to the intelligence. If you happen to have a left-handed child, please let him alone. There is no disgrace in being a south paw. Far from it. The ball will go just as far.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Educational Costs Considered Lower

Minneapolis—(A)—Now is the time for all good men and women to go to school, says W. F. Middlebrook, comptroller at the University of Minnesota.

Lower costs, Middlebrook says, have cut the expense of education—everything in connection with school attendance except tuition has been reduced in price, from room and board to theater tickets.

Dormitory rates have been lowered for both men and women; some fraternities and sororities have curtailed costs of membership and living in the houses, and incidentals, of course, are less.

By close figuring, Middlebrook estimates, students living at home can attend the university for about $180 a year. This would include tuition, books, lunch and carfare.

THE STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

JACK MAKES AN UNEXPECTED VISIT

AS Sue began to turn the knob of the safe, recalling the combination, she had time to wonder what boldness had made Burns dare to come to the office. He was staking everything on a chance of not being caught. She told herself that he must be involved, rather desperately, in some situation, which demanded this knowledge, something which carried a risk greater than the one he was running here. Otherwise he would have depended more on his henchmen.

She turned the dial to three. Now to two. On to eight. Some one was at the outer door. It was locked. Burns had moved the catch with skillful fingers. But it was opening anyway. Opening rapidly.

Only a few people had keys to it. One of them must have come back. Judge Thornton? Curtis? Sue turned her head slowly. The door opened wide as she did. "Jack!" she said, her words trembling, almost unbelieving. Then more joyfully, "Jack!"

"Well, well, walking in on our little party," Burns' sarcastic tones cut the thick air.

"Ready to cut the cake?" Jack asked, lightly enough. Sue noticed that Burns gave Prichard a knowing glance. She saw the younger man start to move toward Jack, with a sinking motion. But she wasn't afraid. The police were so close. But maybe they might delay too long. All of a sudden she let out a cry. Shriek, Piercing.

There were blue-coated figures in the room at once. The two invaders tried to escape but cool steel guns were leveled at them. Everything was confused, chaotic. Sue knew only that Jack had reached her in a swift, long stride. That he was holding her close. Murmuring comforting things against her hair.

Then the two men were taken away.

One officer, the physician, Ruth Burke, Sally and Sarah were there. Explanations came quickly. Ruth Burke could talk now.

"Late this afternoon, the other girl came, and some man was with her. They sat down to wait for Jack Thornton. They said he was coming and they were to meet him. That's all I know. I was getting sleepy—dreadfully sleepy. I think they threw something into the office. They stayed by the window. I could hardly keep my eyes open. When I awakened I was in that place."

She nodded her head toward the paneled closet. "Then everything was black again."

"But your hat?" Sue asked Jack suddenly. "I found it in the other wardrobe. Then I knew—I was sure, you were held somewhere."

"My hat?" Jack crossed the floor to the table, and picked up the hat at which Sue was looking. He whistled softly. "I lost it a year ago! It's just like the one I was wearing today!" He compared the two. "Exactly!" I always wondered where it had gone."

"Circumstantial evidence," Sue said ruefully, "but it gave me a terrible half hour."

Sally's voice interrupted. "Will—will Hal be coming after me any more?" Her voice, her eyes, her whole manner, begged them to say yes.

NEXT: A plan for Sally.

Don't allow the top of your cook stove to get red hot as too much heat warps the lids. When the coal begins to burn with a steady blue flame close the damper.

Never trust to memory in giving doses of medicine. Read the label at least three times and if you are not sure the dose is correctly measured, throw it away, rinse the glass with cold water and measure over again. You may save a life by being careful when measuring medicines.

To wash woolen stockings so that they will not shrink is quite easy. First shred some yellow soap into a small tin saucerpan. Cover it with cold water and boil slowly until it is like a jelly. Take some tepid water and with the boiled soap make a good lather. Rinse in tepid, clear water, wring out and hang in the air to dry quickly.

If ivory enamel is to be used on furniture an undercoat of flat ivory paint should first be put on. Imperfections in the application of enamel will show less if a flat coat is first applied.

Kerosene oil will remove fresh paint stains.

Statisticians Miss Some Of Depression's Losses

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—We have been married four years and have two darling babies. This last year, owing to economical conditions, we have had to go to live in smaller quarters and cut expenses to the bone. My husband and I both work early and late and as the result seldom see each other alone except for a few minutes before bedtime. At mealtime the cry is from the children: "I wanna drink. I wanna this and that" until I feel I could almost go crazy. My husband and I seldom go out together and the gulf between us is widening and I seem powerless to help it. It seems that all of our contacts result in a gruff comment or nasty little digs or criticism. And my husband is beginning to drink too much. So there we are, and for our babies' sake I want our home to be happy and intact. What can I do?

ONCE LIGHT-HEARTED.

DOROTHY DIX

When financiers have tried to estimate the cost of the depression they have not figured in the loss there has been in domesticity as they have in cotton or wheat or manufactured goods, yet the slump in spiritual values has been far more disastrous to the country than the slump in stocks.

For these have been the times that tried men's and women's souls and tested out the love of husbands and wives and so many of them have been found wanting. They could not stand the gaff. They could not endure the anxiety about money and descending to a lower scale of living.

Hard times have driven men to drink and made them surly and hard to live with. It has turned women into shrews and niggers and whiners and complainers. Poverty has broken up homes and slain affection and when it has been a choice of giving up a car or golf or pretty clothes or a husband or wife, only too often the husband or wife has been thrown into the discard.

Not always has this happened. There have been plenty of men and women whose morale has been strengthened instead of weakened by adversity. There have been plenty of men who have taken the blow of losing their fortunes on the chin and have started at the bottom, their courage undaunted, to begin the long battle all over again. And there have been plenty of wives who have bucked their husbands up, and who have rolled up their own sleeves and gone back into the kitchen or out into the world to help with never a word of complaint on their lips.

But it takes men and women of strong souls to be able to endure misfortune without letting it sour their dispositions or warp their characters or blur their perspective. Nor need we be too hard on those who could love and be domestic and enjoy their babies if they had a good income and a big house and a competent nurse, but who are cross and irritable and quarrelsome when they are crowded up together and have to do over again the work of five. As Becky Sharpe said, "Anybody can be virtuous on $5000 a year."

This is your case, you poor discouraged wife and mother. You and your husband as you are worried about money, and that is why everything has got on your nerves so that you can see nothing but faults in each other and the old love seems gone and even the babies are nothing but a nuisance. The only remedy for this is for you just to summon up what courage you have and dig in as they did during the war and hold the home fort until this depression is over. It will pass and your financial crises have before. Be patient with your husband, and realize that when he says sharp things to you it is his hurt pride speaking, not his heart. Get a grip on your own self-control and do not take out your irritation on your husband and the babies.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a desperate girl of 16. About eight months ago I answered one of those letters in the "Pen Pals" section of a magazine in which a boy in a distant state said he wanted to correspond with a girl. Ever since we have been exchanging letters and photographs. A short time ago he wrote and said he was coming to see me. I made all sorts of excuses, but he is coming up and my parents are terribly strict and I could never explain Hal to them, as he seems to be an uneducated sort with not too many morals. What can I do? I am sick with worry.

CELIA SUE.

Answer:

I am afraid you are in for a very unpleasant experience, Celia Sue, but take your spanking, for you richly deserve it, and get it over with. By which I mean tell your father all about the boy and how you got into communication with him and let father handle the situation, for it requires more tact and finesse than you possess.

My suggestion is that your parents send you off on a visit somewhere so that you won't be at home when the boy arrives and you won't have to stand his reproaches for all the sentimental things that I know you wrote in those letters. For when a girl dips into the ink she takes leave of all prudence and writes high-fluting romantic things that she would never say in the world.

And, for goodness sake, keep yourself out of such messes in the future. I knew of one girl who got into just such a correspondence with a man who she had never seen and who turned out to be a blackmailer and an ex-convict, and it cost her father a good many thousand dollars to buy back her letters and keep her from being made the laughing stock of the community in which they lived.

GOOD LITTLE GIRL

By Emily Post

AGAIN, ENDANGERED

FAMILY RELATIONSHIPS

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's niece is to be married in church with a small breakfast at a fashionable hotel afterwards. And this is where I should like your advice: Some relatives have been invited to the church and the breakfast, while others have only been invited to church. My husband is very much upset as our 13-year-old daughter has not been included in our invitation to the breakfast. Nor were other young members of the family invited, which he considers very improper and so does another sister, and both say they will not go to the wedding, and there is a great deal of criticism and resentment. The reason why all are not invited to the hotel is that she cannot afford to have such a large breakfast. It is my husband's opinion that she should omit the hotel breakfast, have a simple collation at the house and invite all the family to participate and have everybody feel happy. Mrs. Post, will you kindly answer and let me know what you think we should do, as I feel somewhat like my husband and his sister, who is not the mother of the bride. But we must let them know if we are coming or not.

Answer: It is always difficult to reply to questions of this sort without causing trouble for someone. But to be honest, I must agree with your husband in feeling that your daughter should have been invited too, because a wedding is very much like Christmas in that the children of the family are an essential part of the picture. Personally, I think a simple collation at her own home would be in must better taste than one in a hotel, regardless of outlay. But the wedding, after all, is hers! If your husband refuses to go, and you do not want to go without him, the only thing for you to do is send your regrets. But this course of action is far from certain to result in a stained family relationship. Of this I suppose your husband is aware?

Your Birthday

"VIRGO"

If September 16th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9.40 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4.50 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p. m. and 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

An inactive and ineffective day is augured for September 16th. The tendency to let things slide may start the ball rolling in the wrong direction, especially in regard to business or work, and drastic steps may have to be taken to recover today's setbacks. Beware of accidents, if a motorist!

The 16th will have a quiet, easy-going nature. It will always become easily discouraged, and will need encouragement and moral backing. It would be difficult for it to fend for itself without the aid of a good education or specialized training upon which to fall back. It will be very fond of emotional literature and music.

You have a very silent and shut-in nature, if born on September 16th, and your life will not be an open book, if you can keep its pages closed to the world in general. You refuse at times to recognize your duty, as a social animal, to talk. It is sheer mental sloth which keeps you from pulling your weight conversationally. It is not empty-headedness or a natural shyness. Your "hands off" attitude applies to all phases of life, and you do not want others to handle your mental or material possessions, without your permission.

You are too autocratic to get along well with subordinates, although at all times you aim to be just and square. You are well aware of your own worth, and are never going to belittle it for any one. You have a solid mind, a good memory, and exceptional powers of concentration. You have your own private ambitions, and your life is moulded so as to conform to their demands. You have immense courage, moral as well as physical; you prefer to perfect methods, however tedious, if the labor can be avoided.

You will not fall easily, but you will fall hard when you do find yourself in love. If a man, you usually get what you want, and this will include the lady of your heart.

Bonus Demand Facing Heavy Attack in U.S.

If Legion Votes Cash Payment Concentrated Opposition Will Result

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — The American legion doubtless will demand immediate cash payment of the bonus this week, but if this is done it will mean the beginning of the most concentrated attack on all kinds of bonus legislation that has been attempted since the war.

At the moment the veterans' organizations wield a political power which members of congress feel is potent. Whatever the legion demands is usually granted by Republicans or Democrats, irrespective of party platforms about economy. Last year the legion did not favor payment of the bonus immediately, so many members of congress felt justified in refusing to vote for it. Now, however, with the legion going on record this week congress will take the request seriously, unless of course some counter policy force is set in action. Just what the recently formed National Economy league is going to do about organizing congressional districts after the manner of the wet forces, which were patterned after the Anti-Saloon league, it is too early to say. But undoubtedly the organization of a bi-partisan body to demand votes for economy of each member of congress, irrespective of party, is the basic purpose of the new group.

Smith Leads Way
The outspoken attack on expenditures for veterans made by Alfred E. Smith in the Saturday Evening Post is probably the first gun in a nation-wide attack against the heavy expenses for veterans. There are some members of the legion who realize that the immediate cash payment demand is going to bring to a head the whole problem of veterans' expenses and that the opposition is not only going to try to prevent immediate cash but will demand a downward revision on all expenses for veterans that were not directly connected with war service.

Until now the legion has agitated the bonus question in congressional districts through local posts and there has been practically no opposition from taxpayers' groups. The idea that all of the citizens will be taxed to pay the increased payments on the bonus will be used as the basis for counter attack on the demands of the ex-service groups.

For the moment the eviction of the bonus army from Washington is a political issue; but it may be overshadowed before the end of the campaign by a demand that the democratic nominee state whether he is in accord with the plan for immediate cash payment and whether he also favors reduction by about $416,000,000 of present veterans' expenditures, as outlined by some of its spokesmen who interpret the Democratic platform demand for a billion dollars of economy to include such a reduction in veterans' expenses.

After the presidential campaign is over, the bonus question will be even a more conspicuous issue, as renewed demands will be made that congress pass the immediate payment plan. Mr. Hoover would veto such a measure. Whether it could be passed over his veto depends on the extent to which the taxpayers' groups are organized to bring pressure to bear on their congressmen against such a step. In other words,

Auction Hammer Falls on Krueger Art and Jewelry

617 Separate Items in Collection of Late Match King

Stockholm — (P) — The "Ivan Krueger Collection" of words of art, jewelry, and furniture, assembled during the years when the match king lived with a check book in his hand, is to be auctioned off to the highest bidders at the Swedish-French art gallery here, starting Sept.

There are 617 separate items in this collection, including 130 oil paintings, etchings and water color, 30 silky Persian rugs, 60 jeweled rings, necklaces, cuff buttons and watches, along with small statuary, glassware, china, gold plate, and tapestries.

The match king was not a connoisseur of things beautiful in the strict sense. He did not spend his time dallying through art galleries or trying to pick up bargains at auction sales.

When he saw something he liked he bought it. The ever ready check book spoke for him.

His Stockholm and Paris apartments were therefore art galleries on a small scale, and singularly devoid of the flashy and ornate. His collection of paintings has many originals, including a group by Anders Zorn, famous Swedish artist, and others by Courbet, Cypri, Tintoretto, and Jan van Huysum. Some of the paintings cost Krueger as much as 100,000 crowns (about $25,000).

(Copyright, 1932)

The first real test of the economy wave will come on the bonus question next winter and the action, therefore, that the legion takes this week is bound to mean the beginning of a general campaign for and against the bonus which will keep going long after the presidential contest has been decided.

Vets' Censure Of President To be Shelved

Legion Apparently All Set To Vote for Prohibition Law Repeal

Portland, Ore.—The American legion apparently was ready to demand immediate payment of the bonus today despite President Hoover's warning such would be "a fatal threat to the entire program of recovery."

Legionnaires also were expected to go on record for immediate repeal of the prohibition law but apparently an attempt to have the organization censure President Hoover for use of troops in evicting the bonus expeditionary force from the nation's capital, had failed. The resolutions committee shelved the "censure" resolution.

Supporters of the B. E. F. resolution asserted they could muster sufficient support to pass it if a way could be found to bring it up on the floor, but the committee's rejection seemed to offer no parliamentary loophole.

Selection of a national commander to succeed Henry L. Sweeney, Jr. was the other major item before the annual convention here on its last crowded day.

President Hoover's statement yesterday against the bonus was said by proponents of the resolution to have had the opposite effect from that intended.

Raymond Fields, a candidate for national commander and a delegate from Oklahoma, predicted the vote on the bonus would be nine to one against the president's recommendation.

"This effort will arouse resentment and be construed as political," Fields said.

Ray Kelly, Michigan, another candidate for commander, said he disagreed with the president on the financial phase of his statement. "I believe there is no question but that the government can pay the bonus without wrecking the financial structure of the nation," Kelly said. "I base my belief on reports of over-subscription of recent bond issues."

Blessing," Patman Says

Representative Wright Patman of Texas, author of the legislation in congress, said: "The payment of the adjusted service certificates will not be a blow to the general welfare of the nation, but will be a great blessing to the plain people of this country. . . . Such payment will only be a blow to the international bankers and will delay cancellation of the war debts. Mr. Hoover is willing to give Europe several times the amount of money necessary to pay the adjusted service certificates."

Anti-bonus leaders in the legion either refused to comment or could not be reached.

Robert W. Reed, news editor of the Kansas City Star and a member of the Missouri delegation which has sought compromise on the question, declined to express his personal views.

"The Missouri delegation," he said, "has taken a stand for the payment of the bonus when it can be made without impairing the financial structure of the nation. The delegation is willing to leave the time of payment to congress."

Reed's effort to substitute the Missouri compromise plan failed when the legislative committee tabled his motion.

The resolutions committee's "pocket veto" of the B. E. F. resolution was regarded by some persons wise in legion affairs primarily as an effort to "stay out of politics."

Even though both Republicans and Democrats participated in the committee deliberations, it was felt the resolution would stamp the legion as partisan.

There were 11 candidates for national commander, with the probability some of them would drop out before the convention resumed and throw their support to one or another of the leading contestants.

Those running were: George W. Malone, Nevada; Frank N. Belgrano, Jr., California; Louis A. Johnson, West Virginia; R. J. Kelly, Michigan; Raymond Fields, Oklahoma; Edward Hayes, Illinois; Earl Cliff, Minnesota; Sam Reynolds, Nebraska; J. R. Murphy, Iowa; and Richard Paul, Massachusetts.

The legion yesterday reiterated its demand for a larger army and navy, opposed recognition of Soviet Russia, denounced cancellation of European war debts or adherence to the world court and opposed modification of naturalization laws to permit aliens to become citizens without taking an oath to bear arms in the nation's defense.

Moratorium Plan Saves Oklahoma's Banks in Distress

System Meets With Remarkable Success, Examiner Reports

Oklahoma City.—Born of adverse business conditions, a "moratorium plan" has reopened failed state banks in Oklahoma and saved others from closing their doors.

The plan, inaugurated almost two years ago in the little town of Ringwood, Okla., has met with "remarkable success" in 18 banks in this state, W. J. Barnett, state bank commissioner said. Only two institutions, both in small towns, have failed since Barnett became commissioner last May.

Commissioner Barnett was appointed by Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray with the understanding he was to take the banking department "out of politics."

At once Barnett demanded the resignation of every employee connected with the department, later re-employing a few of them. The legal department was ordered to begin immediate prosecution of all bankers charged with law violation and to open banks wherever possible under the "moratorium" plan.

A failed bank reopening under the new plan draws a red line under each account balance and holds all above that line in a moratorium. It begins collection of loans, converting assets into cash for old depositors, and begins business anew for new ones. Two sets of books are kept.

Depositor's Agreement Necessary

The "moratorium" is used when there has been no law violation by the bankers; when 100 per cent of depositors sign an agreement not to withdraw funds until after the close of the second "crop period," when stockholders pledge enough collateral to guarantee payment of double liability in event the bank cannot remain open; and when the bank commissioner is given full charge.

"No bank recently has been permanently closed in Oklahoma unless because of criminal negligence," Barnett said.

He asserted it required seven years for an average community to recover from a bank failure.

Piles Go Quick

Itching, bleeding or protruding piles go quickly and don't come back, if you really remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the lower bowel and hemorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Salves and suppositories fail because only an internal medicine that stimulates the circulation and drives out the impure blood can actually correct the cause of piles. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing it for 1,000 patients with success in over 900 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. Schlitz Bros. and druggists everywhere sell HEM-ROID Tablets with guarantee they will end your Pile misery or money back. Adv.

Relief Body Gives Jobs to 600 Persons

Record of Neenah Committee Outlined by C. D. Regan

Neenah—The history, aims, and accomplishments of Mayor George Sande's unemployment relief committee were outlined by C. D. Regan, director of the committee, at a meeting of the Neenah Kiwanis club at Valley Inn Wednesday noon.

The committee, appointed by Mayor Sande because of the press of unemployment in Neenah, includes representatives of business, manufacturing and professional fields and is designed to provide work rather than direct relief, Regan explained.

Funds for the expenses of the committee office are guaranteed by members of the committee and constitute no burden on the tax payer. Since the office was opened about 600 individuals have been given work on park projects, street and sewer improvements, the ice harvest, the reopened quarry, and in other fields, he stated.

Members of the committee are S. F. Shattuck, C. B. Clark, Nathan Bergstrom, Leo Schubert, Ray Vanderwalker, Dr. G. H. Williamson, Max Schalk, Henry Jung, Emil Harder and C. D. Regan.

Weinke Sets Pace for Commercial Bowlers

Neenah—A. Weinke led Commercial league bowlers on Neenah all day Wednesday evening with a 614 series and single games of 199, 207 and 208. N. Buntzel rolled high game of 259, Demnath chalked up a 242, Christensen, 228; J. Meyer, 226 and Tews 223.

The Kolbe Florals took high team and series honors with a total of 2,714 pins out of 3,000, 859 and 863.

The Draheim Sports won three games from the Twin City Bottlers. Sawyer Paper Co. took three from the Twin City Cleaners, Kramer Meats won a pair from the Wieckert Lumber company, and Kolbe's Florals won two out of three from the Badger Paints.

Coach Picks Two Football Squads

Neenah's New Grid Machine to Average About 150 Pounds

Neenah—The high school football squad of 53 men has been divided into two groups by Coach Ole Jorgensen, the first string men consisting of those who played with last year's team, and lettermen. The second group is made up of some who were out last year but who did not play in the games, and beginners who are out for the first time.

Scrimmages are conducted each evening, signals and plays having been learned during the past few days. The squad this year is considered the heaviest the past five years, weighing on the average 150 pounds. Whitpain and Woeckner, 190 and 198 pounds, respectively, head the list of a dozen or more huskies who weigh in the neighborhood of 150 to 175 pounds. Such well known players as Captain Haire, Neubauer, Fetters, Patterson, Thomack, Palmbach, McDirmid, Bylow, Drier, Weinke, Bunker of last year's team, are back for another season.

A practice game has been arranged for Saturday morning with a team composed of former high school luminaries, headed by Block, Fahrenkrug, Neubauer, Barnes, Becken and others. The first game on the 1932 schedule will be played here Saturday, Sept. 24 with W. DePere.

Neenah Fireman, Casting for Bass, Lands Large Gull

Neenah—Captain William Hoepfer of the Neenah fire department made an unusual catch while fishing on Lake Winnebago Tuesday afternoon.

Casting for black bass, Hoepfer's hook caught the wing of a gull flying near the boat. The bird battled more than any fish the fireman ever caught but was finally "landed" and released after the hook was removed.

Walter Lang, also a member of the department, witnessed the catch. The gull probably was attracted by the minnow Hoepfer was using for bait and there is now some talk of using corn for landing ducks in a similar manner after the season opens next month.

Neenah Couple Is Wed Half Century

Golden Wedding Anniversary Celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz

Neenah—Mr. and Mrs. Anton Schwartz, 615 Church-st., observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary at the summer home of their son, Harvey Schwartz, at Rainbow beach today. A family dinner was served at noon and open house will continue until 7 o'clock this evening.

Says Progressives Are Humanitarians

Walter D. Corrigan Attacks Stalwart Tariff Measures

Neenah—Tracing the battle for human rights throughout history, and asserting that progressives, by whatever name called, have been humanitarians, Walter D. Corrigan, progressive Republican candidate for congressman from the sixth district, addressed a large crowd in Shattuck park here Wednesday evening.

In addition to a discussion of the campaign issues, Corrigan outlined the achievements of the LaFollette Progressives in the state and nation under the late Robert M. LaFollette, Sr., and in Wisconsin under the present administration of Philip LaFollette.

He attacked stalwart Republican tariff measures, particularly the Mellen-Grundy and Esch-Cummins laws, and said that he was opposed to any tariff law which affords the least favor to, or promotes monopoly.

Corrigan spoke against the eighteenth amendment, pointing out that the constitution is no place for any mere police regulation and pledged support to actions for the repeal of the amendment and modification of the Volstead act.

Captain H. W. Barker, chairman of the Winnebago-co Progressive Republican club, opened the meeting and introduced Gailord Dahlstrom of Neenah, progressive candidate for Winnebago-co register of deeds.

T. E. McGillan of Menasha, candidate for the assembly on the Progressive ticket, also spoke briefly, pointing out that throughout his entire campaign he has indulged in no personalities and made the statement that if it were necessary to "sling mud" to gain office, he did not want it. He said he believed, however, that the twin cities and the county are not receiving the representation in the assembly that they have every right to expect.

Buy Iron Stakes for Cemetery Lot Markers

Menasha—The purchase of 1,500 iron stakes from the Whitmore Machine company at $153 for use as lot markers at the new Resthaven cemetery was authorized by a special meeting Wednesday evening.

The purchase of lawn seed for use at the cemetery also was considered but on motion of Alderman Grode, the clerk was authorized to advertise for bids, returnable Sept. 28.

Bids on both stakes and seed were sought by the council recently but no proposals on the markers were received and the one bid on the seed was rejected.

Nurse Association Reports 557 Calls

Menasha—The Twin City Visiting Nurse association made 557 calls during August, it was revealed at the monthly meeting here Wednesday.

The September health welfare clinic examined 41 children, 11 new cases and 30 returned cases, it was reported, and at the last three dental clinics the needs of 50 children were given attention, 33 from Menasha and 17 from Neenah. The next health welfare clinic will be held in Neenah Oct. 4.

Landgraf Speaks to Club About Banking

Menasha—A talk on banking by H. E. Landgraf, cashier of the First National bank, featured a regular meeting of the Menasha Rotary club in Hotel Menasha Wednesday noon.

Landgraf's talk was similar to one he gave at a recent meeting of the Kiwanis club, describing banking activities and explaining operations relative to identifications, loans, checks, investments and other factors.

Lays Blame for Conditions on Stalwart Group

State Labor Federation Secretary Urges Support for LaFollette

A review of economic conditions, the blame for which he laid at the door of "reactionary" Republicans, was made by J. J. Handley, secretary of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, at a meeting of Appleton laborers and union men at Trades and Labor hall last night. Handley appeared at a special meeting called by the Appleton Trades and Labor council, which followed a short business session of the council. Carl Smith, council president, presided.

Handley told of the large number of unemployed in the state and said that he was a member of the legislative interim committee that studied the Wisconsin situation last year. He said he felt that this state had a problem of its own, equally as grave as that of any other state. He pointed to the accomplishment in taking hold of that problem and in passing legislation that was helpful to the worker, the farmer, and the small home owner and business man.

A tremendous effort is being made by reactionary forces, who are opposed to labor, to defeat the friends of the labor movement in the legislature, Handley said. He called attention to the fact that the entire LaFollette administration had at all times cooperated with the efforts of organized labor to better conditions of the workingman, whether organized or unorganized.

His Reactionaries

"Reactionary newspapers have ridiculed the statement alleged to have been made by Governor LaFollette, that if necessary he would conscript wealth in order to feed the hungry and poor," Handley declared. "But these same newspapers and reactionaries say nothing about the conscription of the homes of the working man and the farms that are being taken away from them through foreclosure proceedings. Jobs taken away from workmen and the destruction of their earning power is conscription too, but the stalwarts say nothing about that. No working man or farmer or small business man need fear that Governor LaFollette would do anything to destroy their hard earned savings."

"It is ridiculous to think that Progressives, who have been working to help the laborer, home owner, farmer and business man would do anything of this kind. Neither is it the policy of Progressives to harm industry. All that we want is that those who are earning big incomes and the $41,000,000 income from dividends that went untaxed before this, to pay their fair share in taxes toward upkeep of the state government. The only way we can take care of the tremendous burden of unemployment and poor relief is through the power of taxation. We can no longer do this great work satisfactory by leaving it to private charity. Private charity has done well in the past, but the burden has become too great to depend on that source."

Handley urged reelection of Congressman George J. Schneider, State Senator A. M. Miller and Assemblyman William Bay and the election of L. E. Nichols to the assembly and Samuel Sigman as district attorney.

Freshman Week Opens Today on College Campus

Dr. H. M. Wriston Officially Welcomes New Students Tonight

Lawrence college inaugurated its 1932-33 school year Thursday morning with the beginning of freshman week. The morning's program was opened with the registration of new students. The enrollment of freshmen is expected to be nearly as large as last year, according to Robert Beggs, student secretary.

Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of the college, will officially welcome the freshmen at 7:30 Thursday evening at Memorial chapel. Marshall Wiley, president of the All College club, also will welcome the new students at this gathering. Rex Mitchell will speak on the history of Lawrence at convocation at 9 o'clock Friday morning. Dr. Wriston will talk on Choosing a Vocation at the Saturday morning convocation and Gordon Clapp on Freshman Scholarship at the Monday morning convocation.

The Freshman Week includes an open house for girls at Hamar house Friday afternoon, the president's reception Friday evening, a mixer for men at Brokaw hall Saturday afternoon, a frolic at the campus gymnasium Saturday evening, and a vesper service at the Congregational church Sunday afternoon.

Conferences with the advisors, placement tests and physical examinations also are taking place this week. Group lectures will be given to the students at 10 o'clock Saturday and Monday mornings. Miss Marguerite Woodworth, dean of women and Miss Emogene Perschbacher, president of Lawrence Women's association will speak to the women and Dr. R. V. Landis, college physician, and Dr. Wriston to the men. Dr. Landis also will speak to the women at the Monday morning convocation.

ALEXANDER VON HUMBOLDT, in South America at the beginning of the 19th century, saw live fish hurled from the mouth of a volcano along with boiling water. Apparently the fish were blown out of a subterranean channel that was opened up by the force of the eruption. EXCAVATIONS of the ancient Peruvian cities have shown that many of the Inca skull operations were successful. Skulls have been found where the openings made by the unskilled surgeons were covered over with new growths of bone. It is remarkable that any patient ever survived when one considers the crude tools in use at that time.

Medical Society Tries to Curtail State's Activity

Would Limit Competition Of Wisconsin-Owned Institutions

Milwaukee—(P)—The Wisconsin State Medical society decided at a meeting last night that an attempt will be made to curtail competition of state institutions and agencies with private hospitals and the medical profession.

As the first step in its program the society plans to confer with regents of the University of Wisconsin regarding a proposal that the Wisconsin General hospital at Madison limit activities which the society contends have reduced the occupancy of private hospitals to 50 per cent of capacity.

Recommendations to be submitted to the regents include:

- 1—Limiting the care of public patients to those actually in need of specialized service which cannot be obtained in local institutions at a similar cost to the counties.
- 2—An improvement in the form of record of the admissions of part-pay patients to prevent any abuse of the facilities that the state offers by patients who are not deserving of these facilities.

3—Care of private patients by faculty members of the university in other local hospitals that the floor space in the general hospital now devoted to private cases may be given over to the indigent and semi-indigent.

It was suggested that similar action to curb the inroads of county hospitals upon the profession be taken, but no decision was reached.

A committee which has been studying the state general hospital reported that several University of Wisconsin faculty members are collecting a considerable sum in private fees in the state institution. The report pointed out that facilities at the hospital are crowded while private institutions are forced to shut down.

The society learned that 14 per cent of all the admissions at the state general hospital during 1931 were private patients and that the fees accruing to essentially full time staff members were approximately 60 per cent of and in addition to the amounts paid in salaries.

75 Attend Rally of G. O. P. at Greenville

Approximately 75 persons attended a Republican rally at Greenville last night at which various candidates were speakers. Seymour Gmeiner, Appleton, presided. Speakers included: Gmeiner, Elmer Honkamp, candidate for the assembly from the first county district; A. W. Laabs, candidate for the same job; F. F. Wheeler and Oscar J. Schmege, candidates for district attorney.

Green Bay Packers Raise Third Pro Grid Pennant Sunday

Chicago Cards Are Opponent In Loop Opener

Music by Drum Corps and Bands, Speeches Will Be Feature

GREEN BAY — For the third consecutive year the Green Bay Packers will celebrate the raising of a National Professional Football league pennant when the championship banner, symbolic of the 1931 season, will be raised on the stadium flagpole just before the whistle blows for the Chicago Cardinal game Sunday.

Joseph F. Carr, Columbus, O., president of the league, has been invited to attend the celebration. Others who will participate are Mayor John V. Diener, Leland H. Lambeau, president of the Green Bay Football club, Coach E. L. Lambeau of the three champion Green Bay eleven, Dr. W. W. Kelly, member of the National Football league's executive board and Dr. David J. Jones, owner of the Chicago Cardinals.

Fitting to the occasion, there will be plenty of music. As usual the Green Bay Legion band will be on hand, together with the Green Bay High school band and the Russell Leitch chapter. Disabled American War Veterans' drum corps.

The ceremony is scheduled to start shortly before 7 p. m. and all spectators are urged to be in their seats earlier than usual so that the entire assemblage will be ready to pay fitting tribute to the football team that has broken all records, both professional and collegiate.

Officials to Speak — Before the title winning banner is hoisted, league representatives and officials of both clubs will make short addresses from the center of the field through the medium of the public address system. Following this, the officials, teams and bands will march to the west end of the gridiron and stand at attention when the pennant is lifted while the national anthem is played.

According to E. A. Spachmann, director of ticket sales, all indications point to a large crowd at Sunday's game. Several of the out of town agencies have asked for additional blocks of tickets while the local ticket selling places report business above normal. There have been many requests for reservations from Chicago as Cardinal fans will follow the team here for the week-end encounter.

Extend Offer to School Squads — The football corporation has decided to again extend invitations to high school football squads in Wisconsin and upper Michigan to be "pay guests" at the Packers games here. In other words, the Packer management slashes the admission price for the scholastic gridirers and provides the boys with some of the best seats in the stadium. High school athletic directors desiring to take advantage of this offer are asked to get in touch with the Football corporation.

The contract of Fay "Mule" Wilson, who played halfback on the 1931 Packers squad has been turned over to the Portsmouth Spartans, according to an announcement made today by Coach E. L. Lambeau. Wilson joined the Packers right at the close of the 1930 season.

The slashing of the Green Bay 1932 squad to meet the National league limit began today with the release of Jack White, Purdue quarterback. White was making a bid for a position on the Packer squad this year, his first out of school. Lack of experience and size handicapped the quarterback in competition with others of the big squad.

CARR NAMES OFFICIALS — Columbus, O. President Joe F. Carr of the National Football league has named Meyer Morris, Rock Island, Ill., to referee the Packer-Chicago Cardinal game at Green Bay on Sunday which marks the opening of the 1932 pennant chase in the professional gridiron circuit.

Lloyd F. Scott, Milwaukee, will do the umpiring while Wilfred Smith, of Chicago, has been assigned the headlinesman's duties. President Carr has been invited by the Green Bay club to participate in the pennant raising ceremonies, scheduled for Sunday on the Packers' gridiron and he plans to leave here Friday night for Wisconsin.

Valley Conference Holds Meeting Here

Valley conference athletic officials and coaches met today in Appleton to plan for the fall basketball campaign, name officials and transact whatever other business is scheduled to come before the group. The session started this morning at Hotel Northern. A luncheon was scheduled at noon.

Appleton high school was represented by Coach Joseph J. Shields, Werner Witte, faculty athletic manager and Herbert H. Heible principal. Witte is a vice president of the association.

Valley Coaches to Hear Jim Maskers

Fox river valley grid coaches and sports officials will gather at the recreational gymnasium at Oshkosh next Tuesday evening and hear a talk by James "Jim" Maskers, Big Ten football official. The talk will be on new grid rules in use this year. The meeting is open to grid officials and coaches in the Fox river valley.

Maskers, a resident of Milwaukee, is probably one of the best known grid officials in the middle west and annually handles the outstanding Big Ten Games.

Spears Must Develop Line for U. W. Eleven

MADISON — (P)—The University of Wisconsin Badgers swung into fall practice today to start the fifth decade of football at Wisconsin and their first year under the tutelage of Dr. Clarence W. Spears.

The new head coach faces his first season here with much the same problem that beset his predecessor for the past three years—lack of a strong line. And because of that problem, Wisconsin, on the basis of pre-season forecasts, is not expected to be a serious challenger for the Western conference title.

When Glenn Thistlethwaite left the Wisconsin post to become coach at Carroll college, Dr. Spears inherited a schedule of eight games, six with conference opponents and two against Marquette and Coe, respectively. The Marquette game, because of intense rivalry, is expected to be the most colorful opening clash in many seasons.

Of the six major lettermen lost by graduation, four were regulars in the line. Dr. Spears must find a center to replace Ken (Moose)

Kranhold at Guard

The leading candidates for jobs at guard are Capt. Greg Kabat, Milwaukee, regular for the past two seasons; Harvey Kranhold, Appleton; Ed Becker, St. Louis, Mo.; Bob Wolf, and Harold Lautz, both of La Crosse; Frank Bucci, Waukegan; Clarence Edwards, Mount Hope, and Milton Kummer, Sheboygan, all of whom saw action last year.

William Koenig, Milwaukee, utility center last year, John Schneller, Neenah, who was converted from fullback to center last spring, and Jerry Femal, Madison sophomore, may fight it out for the center berth, the latter going to end or tackle if Koenig or Schneller develop into regulars.

Almost four sets of tackles will be available from a group that has earned letters during the past two years. Don Guthrie, Barron, who flashed as a sophomore in 1931 is reported to have deserted football this year but Coach Spears has Frank (Moon) Molinaro, Kenosha; Charles Bratton, and Dave Tobias, both of Madison; Kenneth Lindquist, of Thorp; George Eddiebeck, Goodman, and Ray Tanek of Milwaukee.

Ralph Lovshin, Chisholm, Minn., Dick Haworth, Star, Idaho, Milton Begal and George Thurner of Milwaukee; Gordon Ehlers of Neenah and Arthur Mehl, West Allis, are the leading candidates for ends in view of their experience in inter-collegiate competition last year.

Has Many Backs

A wealth of material is available for the backfield, only two of last year's backs having graduated. Charles (Buckets) Goldenberg, Milwaukee, quarterback, Walter McQuire, the Hawaiian flash, and Joe Linfor, Des Moines, Iowa, halfbacks, saw action in every game last year and will probably be the nucleus of the backfield this fall. In addition, Coach Spears has experienced material in the following: Clair Strain, Lamar, Col., fullback last year; Harold Smith, Madison, fullback in 1932; Nello Pacetti, Kenosha, Bobby Schiller, Milwaukee; Jim Bingham, Chicago; Paul Elliker, Waukon, Ia. Ken Kundert, Monroe; Carl Sanger, Milwaukee; Harry Pike, all halfbacks; and Mido Willson, Iron Mountain, Mich., and Leo Poret, Waukegan, Ill., quarterbacks.

In addition to several sophomores who are expected to see action this fall are Mario Pacetti, Kenosha; Ray Davis, and Rudolph Rotter, Milwaukee, tackles; Bert Denmore, Chicago, and William Ahrbeck, South Bend, Ind., ends; Marvin Peterson, Manitowoc, and Richard Hartman, Janesville, halfbacks; and George Dehnert, Waterloo, quarterback.

Wisconsin's schedule: Oct. 1—Marquette at Madison. Oct. 8—Iowa at Madison. Oct. 15—Purdue at Lafayette. Oct. 22—Coe at Madison. Oct. 29—Ohio State at Columbus. Nov. 5—Illinois at Madison. Nov. 12—Minnesota at Madison. Nov. 19—Chicago at Chicago.

Lindstrom Hits Homer in 11th To Beat Bruins

But Pirates Also Lose and Cubs Stay in Front by 5½ Games

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer
S the Chicago Cubs continue to back in a little closer to the National league flag day by day, gradually winning the thing by default, so to speak, their manager is perfectly satisfied with their conduct and steadfastly refuses to view with alarm.

Charlie Grimm wants it that way. Not that he wouldn't like to win every day. He's in there fighting on every pitched ball, but he isn't in any great hurry to sew up the pennant. He wants his team to remain keyed up as long as possible, doesn't want them to have to have an extended "let down" before they meet the Yankees in the world series.

"I believe it's better for a club to keep on its toes right up to the series," he said. "Those Yanks, now, have nothing to do for a couple of weeks except play out their schedule, and it might be hard for them to get back that keen edge they had while they were winning the flag."

Need 7 More Wins

The little bears lost to the New York Giants yesterday, 4 to 3, when Freddie Lindstrom hit a home run in the eleventh inning, but it didn't damage their status any to speak of as the Pittsburgh Pirates were dropping another game to Boston, 5 to 2. The Cubs thus remained 5½ games in front with 11 games to play, making it possible for them to clinch the title with seven more wins. A triple play, started by Bill Urbanski, enlivened the Braves' victory over Pittsburgh.

Brooklyn climbed within 2½ games of second place by taking the St. Louis Cardinals again, 3 to 1, behind Van Mungo's steady curving. The Phillies subdued Cincinnati, 4 to 1, as big Roy Hansen limited the Reds to four hits.

Some of the Yankee veterans took a well-earned rest, but the "Jays" were able to beat the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 2. Walter Brown, making only his second start of the year, led the champions allowed but six hits until the ninth inning. Detroit whaled four Washington pitchers to win an 8 to 3 verdict.

Jimmie Dykes' homerun with two out and the bases loaded in the ninth round set off an eight-run rally that saw the Athletics submerge St. Louis, 13 to 6. Mel Harder kept seven hits scattered in pitching Cleveland to a 9 to 0 win over the Red Sox.

Ripon Expects to Have Squad of 50 Men Available

First Workouts Held Today; Practice Twice a Day to Sept. 21

Ripon—Unless Old Man Depression extracts a large toll, Ripon's candidates for the 1932 Redmen eleven will number about 50 in the next few days, according to Coach Carl H. Doehling.

The vanguard of 1932 candidates began arriving Tuesday for the initial drill this morning. Capt. Arthur Showers, Stoughton, and six other veterans reported late Tuesday. The majority of the new squad was on hand ready for drills Wednesday afternoon, still others reporting today and more expected tomorrow.

Considerable doubt centers around the return of several promising candidates who are meeting with financial troubles. Coach Doehling estimates that at least 10 experienced and new men will be unable to return to school because of finances. Four of Ripon's best sophomore candidates are reported to have entered other schools.

Showers is Captain. In the event all veterans return this year, Coach Doehling will have 11 experienced men around which to build his new machine. Capt. Showers, George Hulka, Antigo; Roland Hippert, Two Rivers; Ralph Kuhlman, Eau Claire; Eugene Sullivan, Chicago; and John Smith, Rosendale, are linemen, while Everett Meyer, Nekeosa; John Cole, Fort Atkinson; Roger Martin, Minneapolis; Fred Schaum, Milwaukee; and Walter Holmes, Stoughton, comprise the backfield talent.

Pre-season drills at Ripon college will be conducted on a two-a-day basis until the opening of school on Sept. 21. The daily workouts will be directed by Head Coach Carl Doehling, who will be assisted by Paul C. Serff and Donald (Red) Martin, assistant coaches. Martin will take charge of freshmen gridirers on Sept. 28.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon E. McIntyre

FOOTBALL time is the time for guessing how the various teams will fare during the course of the regular season. To forecast is a weakness that most sports scribes have but Cleon Walfoort down at Sheboygan has it the worst and without knowledge of the various squads even from practice games he has set down in history what he thinks about the race. And here it is:

There isn't anything tangible, as yet, upon which to base a prediction of the Valley outcome. A general survey, based principally upon traditional form and resources that are apparent in the eligibility lists, indicates four probable classes into which the eight contenders fit comfortably before the first gun has been fired. How gracefully they will occupy their appointed positions after the campaign is a few weeks old is something else again. East Green Bay's great co-champion's of a year ago will be virtually intact and Coach Louis Means' Red Devils loom large in the pre-season calculations. Undisputedly, they will be the team to beat for the championship. Fond du Lac, West Green Bay and Oshkosh should have the best chance of beating them. Behind these three are rated Sheboygan and Appleton, with Marinette and Manitowoc trailing as the only two elevens that can safely be counted out of the race before they get started.

"Watch Fond du Lac," is the warning that is being wafted over the conference battle front. Coach Ed Fruth has a wealth of returning veterans, including Phil Gores, the crack center, at his disposal, but he will sorely miss "Moose" Barrett, the human battering man who tore through opposing lines for seven of every ten yards gained by the Cardinals last fall. Barrett's absence, an inconvenient schedule arrangement which calls for an opening game with East and the Truthmen's habit of fading after the halfway mark are a combination of circumstances that should prove sufficiently disastrous to cost them the championship. Could Fond du Lac meet East in mid-season, when they are at their peak, their chances would be vastly improved.

West will be dangerous if for no other reason that football huskies are more plentiful in Green Bay than in any other city of the conference. West, however, does not figure to be anything more than a distinct threat, and it may be less. The usual optimistic accounts are emanating from the Oshkosh gridiron camp, but better teams than the Blue and White can possibly place in the field this year have proved disappointments. Picking Oshkosh to win a football championship, no matter how strong they look at the outset, is one of the many ways in which the alleged expert can cause himself untold embarrassment.

Give either Appleton or Sheboygan a few breaks and they will make their presence felt, but don't ask them to overcome too many handicaps, because they won't be powerful enough for that. Coach Joe Shields has lost Emmett Mortell and his other big-gun backs, but has capable replacements coming up. Appleton is likely to start slowly and develop into a nuisance of the first order by the time November rolls around. Sheboygan, with a favorable schedule, may surprise. If the regulars can shake off injuries the line will compare fairly well with any forward wall in the circuit. The backfield still is very much in a speculative state. There are no outstanding ball carriers, punters or passers and, what is more serious, there is no single athlete capable of combining all three threats. Still, a strong line can make a mediocre backfield appear to good advantage and Coach Abendroth is pretty generally recognized around the conference as a gentleman who can get maximum mileage out of the material available.

Manitowoc, rebuilding after its most disastrous season in the history of the school, hopes only to break its lease on the conference cellar and Marinette, with another green squad, seems doomed to occupy the lower regions if Manitowoc succeeds in ascending to seventh place. Marinette's happy habit of playing inspired football on several afternoons each autumn should enable them to top Manitowoc.

Nothing Venture

SYNOPSIS: Nan Forsyth demands ten thousand dollars to marry Jervis Weare, who must find a wife within three days or lose a great fortune to his former fiancée, Rose. Then, at the last moment, because his grandfather's will makes her his heir if Jervis fails to marry by a stated time. Considering the arrangement a matter of business, Jervis agrees to pay Nan, who again conceals her secret love for him. She wants the money to make possible her sister's marriage.

Chapter 6
MYSTERY FROM THE PAST

A nine o'clock on the morning of August 16 Jervis Weare was married to Nan Forsyth in St. Bartholomew's church. Outside it is a peculiarly ugly church. And when Nan passed from the bright morning sunshine into the dusk of the interior she found it smelled of musty pew cushions and vanilla—a very depressing smell.

Mr. Page gave her away disapprovingly, and he and the sexton were the only witnesses. She looked once at Jervis, and saw him as a tall, aloof shadow. She could guess at the frown she could not see. When he took her hand and put the ring on it, his was hot and dry. He rammed the ring down, and there it was.

They got up from their knees and went into the vestry. She wrote herself for the last time Nan Forsyth.

"And now your father's name here, Mrs. Weare."

It was the two things coming together that took her off her balance. Mrs. Weare—and her father dead in a far country, not knowing. Tears stung in her eyes; the register disappeared in a mist. She closed her eyes for a moment, hard, then opening them, bent and wrote "Nigel Forsyth," and stood aside while Mr. Page and the sexton signed.

They taxied to the house in silence. Jervis' room was not dark like the church, and the two windows were open to the garden. Nan stood by the windows so as to get as near to the garden as possible.

"What did you want to talk to me about?" she said.

"I wanted to tell you that Mr. Page is seeing about that ten thousand dollars. Have you a banking account?"

He saw her smile for the first time.

"Oh, no," she said.

"You will have to have one. You'd better see Mr. Page about it, and when you have opened the account he will pay the money in. Then, as regards yourself, I have signed a settlement which gives you five thousand a year."

The colour flamed into Nan's face.

"I don't want you to. I can get a job."

Mr. Jervis Weare assumed a lordly tone.

"As to that, you can please yourself. Twelve hundred and fifty dollars a quarter will be paid into your account."

"I can't take it," she said in a voice whose distress pierced Jervis Weare's self-absorption.

He acted with a feeling of acute annoyance.

"Do you mind considering my position for a moment? Do you really expect me to marry a girl and leave her penniless. Why should you have married me if you were going to take up a position like this?"

Why! Nan could have laughed and wept at the question. If they had been in the Palace of Truth she would have said, "Oh, my dear! Why? To save you from being robbed. To save you from the sort of girl you might have married. To save you from picking someone up off the streets." But since these were things to be hidden at any cost, she frowned, looked at him gravely, and said:

"I hadn't thought of it like that."

Her heart said, "Oh, my dear!" Her lips spoke quickly.

but it is too much."

The hurt, angry child disappeared. A rather lofty stranger said in tones of icy politeness,

"The deed is already signed. I would prefer not to discuss the matter any more."

Nan gave a little nod.

"Very well," she said, "Good-bye."

He said "Good-bye" with an air of relief. Then, with her hand still in his, she looked past him and saw the photograph. It hung with other groups above the mantelpiece. Nan did not see the other groups at all. She saw a lawn set about with trees; an old man in a chair, a woman standing beside him, and a third figure—a man walking across the lawn, his back to the camera. It was, at the third figure that Nan stared.

"Who's that?" she said.

"His name is Leonard," Robert Leonard—a connection of—my grandfather's. I don't think you are very likely to have met him."

"You are thinking it's very strange that I should ask questions about Mr. Leonard, but I've got a reason. Will you please tell me where he has been for the last ten years?"

"Why do you want to know?"

"Because I think I saw him once ten years ago."

"Why, the photograph doesn't even show his face!"

Nan wasn't remembering a face: she was remembering just that turn of the head.

"Tell me," she said.

"What do you want to know? Ten years ago—ten years ago...well, exactly ten years ago he was on visit from Latin America staying with my grandfather. I remember that because I know he was staying in the house when I nearly drowned myself out on Croyston rocks."

Nan had turned very pale.

"Mr. Leonard found you?"

"Oh, no. It was a British fellow who was taking photographs."

Ferdinand Francis rushed into Nan's mind—important, efficient, and immensely talkative. And then he was gone again, and she saw the thickest figure of a man coming from behind the Croyston rocks and walking away towards the headland. He was walking away from her, and he was walking away from Jervis, who lay half dead and half out of the pool with a hole in the back of his head and the tide coming up. She said breathlessly,

"I want to know about Mr. Leonard. What happened to him after that?"

"He went back to Latin America."

"Where is he now?"

"Down at Croyston. He's got a chicken farm."

"Thank you," said Nan. She put out her hand again.

"Good-bye," she said. She had wanted to add something—but what?

Nan overhears a terrible plot, tomorrow, and recognizes one of the conspirators.

Veterans May Organize Post At New London

Foreign Wars Soldiers Consider Proposal—Call Another Meeting

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The first steps toward forming a Veterans of Foreign Wars post were taken last night at a meeting at the city hall. Members of posts already established at Clintonville and Bear Creek met with those from this city who are eligible. Another meeting will be held here next week when a chapter will be granted to the local post. It is estimated that between 25 and 50 men of this city and community are eligible. Men eligible are those who have been in the service of the United States in 1898. None who entered service and did not serve in foreign lands or on sea may belong. About 15 men from the two visiting posts were present and five local men have evidenced their interest in forming a post here. These persons are Oscar Bennett, Walter Toepeke, Leonard Borchardt, Byron Christian and Frank Schumacker.

New London Society

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—About 20 members of the Evangelical Brotherhood of Maple Creek met for a social meeting at the home of Charles Beck Tuesday evening.

Mrs. E. H. Ramm was hostess to the Old Settlers Bridge club at her home, Wednesday afternoon.

The Nurses Dancing party date has been changed to Tuesday evening, Sept. 27, at Werner's hall.

A benefit dance for the Bull Dog football team will be given at the Maple Grove pavilion on Tuesday, Sept. 20. Funds raised in this manner will be used to defray expenses of the coming football season. An advance sale of tickets is in charge of the football management.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schoenrock, Wyman-st., entertained Tuesday evening at their home, the event having been planned by Mrs. Schoenrock as a surprise on the birthday anniversary of her husband. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cline, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Steinberg, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Johnson, and Mrs. Mrs. Harold Zang and Bridge was played and prizes were won by Cline, Steinberg, Mrs. Zang and Mrs. Cline.

Plan Organization of Junior Girls' Choir

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—A Junior girls choir, comprising girls who have successfully passed tests and requirements, is being organized under auspices of the Congregational church. It will make its initial appearance on Sunday, Sept. 25, at the annual rally day services during the morning service hour at the church.

The girls are of the upper grade age and will number 16. They will appear in vestment material for which was supplied by W. H. Hutton of this city and made by members of the Ladies Aid society. Plans are being made to interest mothers of the group in a small committee, and it is thought that practices will be held at the church every Sunday afternoon during the winter. Members of the choir will be guests at a tea given in the church parlors on the afternoon of Rally day. A younger group will be brought into the organization soon. This will include girls from the fifth and sixth grades. Direction of the choir will be in charge of Mrs. Clarence Burns, Mrs. A. H. Koten and Mrs. C. B. Reuter.

Five Home Games for New London Eleven

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Five home games, and possibly a sixth have been scheduled for the Dixon high school football team. The first game on Sept. 24 will be an exhibition between the alumni and the local team. A game with Clintonville on the home field Oct. 1 is tentative, and on Oct. 8 Algoma will play here. On Oct. 15 East DePere will appear here and other games of the season which have been arranged include the following: Oct. 22, Marion; here, Oct. 29, West DePere; there, Nov. 1, Menasha; there, and Nov. 11, Shawano here.

SINGS OVER RADIO

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Miss Esther Ziebell of this city, who during the past few weeks has made several appearances over radio stations of this section, will sing over a Milwaukee station at 9 o'clock this evening. She will be featured in a program of amateurs in a contest for prizes and recognition over national networks. Miss Ziebell was chosen as one of forty of the best received amateurs in a recent broadcast from Milwaukee.

PLAN DEDICATION

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The new main auditorium and sleeping quarters of the Lake Tomahawk camp for Legionnaires will be dedicated Oct. 2. The new additions to the veterans camp have been constructed during the past summer. A number of Legionnaires will attend the ceremonies.

GOING TO REUNION

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Men of this city who belong to the 127th Infantry have been asked to attend a reunion of the regiment at Beaver Dam Sept. 24-25. Notice has been received by R. V. Prah, commander of the local Legion post.

F. Eikenbush's Cowboys at Valley Queen, Sunday.

Homecoming Receipts $2,170, Post Reports

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Figures presented to the legion at their last meeting show that those in charge of the recent homecoming took in $2,170 on the grounds. Expenses such as ground rental, music, fireworks and supplies will eat deeply into this amount, but it is believed that the Legion will show a small balance. Legionnaires gathered Tuesday night at their annual stag party at Legion hall at which cards and lunch were enjoyed. About forty were present.

May Drill for Oil In Calumet County

Company Seeks Leases on Farms in Vicinity Of Sherwood

Special to Post-Crescent
Sherwood—Calumet-co has long claimed the reputation for being the milk vein of the state. This slogan may soon be dropped and in its stead a new one substituted reading, "Calumet-co from whence oil blessings flow." According to E. L. Smith, an engineer from Michigan, who spoke before a group of farmers and business men of this vicinity at the Strobe hall, while the object of the pool is to secure leases on a solid block of farms comprising a territory covering about seven miles. The good oil cows who have stuck to the farmer during his many years of prosperity and who have been faithful to him during the slump when milk brought its owner from 65 to 80 cents per 100 pounds, will soon be passing over the chopping block of the meat markets. While the parched and drought-stricken soil will soon be gushing forth oil in abundance, the farmer needs but to turn a faucet in his home to get a supply the proceeds of which will take the creases out of his shriveled purse. The leases will be taken on a basis of one year without rental and the farmers will receive one eighth of the receipts of oil found upon their lands with probably one well to every 20 or 40 acres. Mr. Smith has been in this section since June. He says the pool has appropriated sufficient funds for drilling and as soon as the leases can be procured drilling will start. District Attorney Edward Eick of Clinton took one of the leases with him to analyze it. He will give his opinion soon.

Year 1931
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington — Wisconsin foreign trade decreased 25 per cent from the year 1920 to 1931 as compared with a decrease of 22 per cent for the country as a whole, the Shipping Board announces.

Wisconsin foreign trade in 1931 amounted to 569,383 tons as against a 1930 total of 737,915 tons.

Wisconsin imports amounted to 162,103 tons in 1931 as against 205,618 tons the preceding year.

Exports to foreign countries from the Badger state amounted to 407,280 tons in 1931 as compared with 582,297 tons in 1930.

For the nation as a whole foreign trade in 1931 amounted to 75,913,532 tons as against 1930 figures of 97,247,982 tons. Of the 1931 total 35,864,286 tons were imports while 40,049,246 tons were exports. 1930 imports were 47,512,936 tons as compared with exports of 49,735,046 tons in that year.

Superior led all Wisconsin ports in total foreign commerce, although 10 of its 125 vessels were foreign. Its domestic trade was domestic rather than foreign. It dropped, however from 36th to 37th in rank among ports of the United States in foreign commerce. Its foreign commerce in 1931 amounted to 252,655 tons, of which 264,853 tons were exports, and only 7,802 tons were imports, and in 1930 its foreign commerce amounted to 434,040 tons, of which 425,389 tons were exports and 8,651 tons were imports. It ranked 29th among the ports in exports and 81st in imports, dropping 10 places in rank in exports but rising from 87th to its present rank in imports.

and Marinette were the only Wisconsin ports which showed increases in foreign commerce in 1931 over 1932, although Milwaukee's rank was raised from 95th in 1930 to 90th in 1931. Green Bay had total foreign commerce all imports, amounting to 20,820 tons in 1931 as against 20,214 tons in 1930, and De Pere, which reported no foreign commerce in 1930, had 1,406 tons likewise all imports, in 1931. Manitowoc's foreign commerce increased to 11,622 tons in 1931 from 5,573 tons in 1930 and Marinette's to 11,553 tons from 6,240 tons in 1930. Manitowoc showed no exports in either year. Marinette had no exports in 1930, but had 3,836 tons of exports in 1931.

In other Wisconsin ports, the commerce for the two years was as follows: 87,300 tons of imports and 118,550 tons of exports in 1931 as against 142,848 tons of imports and 109,763 tons of exports in 1930; Milwaukee, 19,809 tons of imports and no exports in 1931 and 12,082 tons of exports and 11,287 tons of exports in 1930; Sheboygan, 62 exports and 102 imports in 1931 and 10,210 tons of imports and no exports in 1930.

Seek Missing Woman; Foul Play Feared

Strive to Identify Torso Found in Grave in New York Woods

Plymouth, Mass.—(AP)—A pair of slippers, a mutilated body in a nameless grave, and fragments of human hair engaged the interest of police of two states today as they sought to learn whether Mrs. Edith DuBois, strangely missing housewife, is alive or dead.

Charles DuBois of Tuckahoe, N. Y., former jewelry salesman and the woman's husband, was arrested Monday after neighbors said he told conflicting stories of her whereabouts, but a judge ordered him released. He has remained near his summer home at Brantree.

While District Attorney Frank C. Coyne of Westchester-co, N. Y., arrived here with what police hope will prove valuable information, the medical examiner of Westchester said he would seek to exhume a torso found Aug. 28 in woods near Crestwood, N. Y., about a mile from the DuBois home.

Authorities questioned Lawrence Kazier, chauffeur for DuBois, for six hours at Brantree yesterday. Sullivan said "valuable information" resulted.

Sullivan said that Mrs. DuBois was last seen, as far as police have been able to determine, Aug. 9 at Wareham. She visited a close friend, Mrs. Marjorie Lovejoy, there. Mrs. Lovejoy, Sullivan said, told him Mrs. DuBois had planned to send her chauffeur to Wareham with some paint next day. Mrs. DuBois has not been seen since and the chauffeur did not return to Wareham.

THE WHITE HOUSE HOOVERS

At the left is Herbert . . . and at the right is Ike . . . and this is the first picture ever made of the White House Hoovers together.

Washington—Regardless of what the voters do in November, there'll still be a Hoover in the White House after March 4—that is, unless Ike Hoover, chief usher at the executive mansion, chooses to retire from his job.

But that's unthinkable, for Ike Hoover has been a member of the White House staff for 41 years now, and he's become almost as much a fixture around the place as the bubbling fountain on the east lawn or the tall flagstaff that rears itself above the roof. He's seen lots of presidents come, and lots of them go in his 41 years.

"I came over from the Edison Company in Plainfield, N. J., to install electric lights in the White House," explains Ike. "I finished my work and returned to New Jersey, only to be recalled next day and of fered a job at looking after the lights. I've been here ever since." In those early days, says Ike, no one knew anything about electric lights and everybody seemed afraid of them. The servants, and even members of the household, would allow the lights to burn all night rather than turn them off. Often, they would throw a black cloth over the globes rather than touch the switch.

State Reservists to Hold Rifle Contest

A Reserve Officers association competition for service rifle and pistol championship will be held at Madison, on Oct. 9, as announced by Dr. W. M. Storey, Major, Dental Reserves President of the Wisconsin Department of the Association. This is in compliance with urgent requests of several of the state chapters. La Crosse, Wausau, Milwaukee and National Guard officers have already expressed an intention of sending teams, as this match will serve the double purpose of determining the state championship and preparing the competitors for the National Reserve Officers Association

Matches to be held in Chicago next spring. There will be individual and team competition with both rifle and pistol, the service rifle preferred, but any .30 calibre rifle with iron sights being permitted. The regulation pistol course, exclusive of the bobbing target, will be fired. Whether Appleton chapter of the reserves will be represented will be decided at a meeting late this month.

THE FALL OF CONSTANTINOPLE

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by Thomas Webb... inspired by the savage slaughter of 5000 Christian defenders—at the hands of the vengeful, barbaric horde of 250,000 men under the ruthless Mohammed II—1453!

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies . . . the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"

—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"
That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, tho he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON. Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?
